WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture.
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., Sept. 23, 1892.

The storm area central over the extreme northwestern portion of the country during the past 48 hours has increased greatly in energy and, from present indications, promises to be one of the great storms of the season; the barometer reads as low as 29.20 inches at several stations in the extreme northwest. If this storm continues its eastward movement, it should reach the lake region by Saturday night.

The area of high barometric pressure is still central over the north Atlantic coast, but drifting slowly eastward.

The temperature has risen or remained stationary in all parts of the country during the past 24 hours. It will remain nearly stationary in all sections and become cooler to-morrow.

Showers have fallen in all parts of the country and with a few exceptions they have been light. Manistee, Green Bay and Washington reporting over one inch and a half.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity—On Friday, fair, becoming coller at night. On Saturday, rain, cooler.

FIRE! FIRE!

Somebody Raised the Cry in New York,

And, As a Result, Several Were Killed.

Panic in a Ludlow Street Building,

While Jewish Services Were in Progress.

Four Dead Bodies Removed From the Debris and It Is Believed Many More Are Yet To Be Taken Out.

New York, Sept. 23.—During the services in one of the four synagogues in the tenement house No. 27 Ludlow street this morning some one raised the cry of fire.

Immediately there was a panic and a mad rush was made for the door.

Four persons have already been found dead, and it is thought at least a dozen have been killed.

The fire was speedily extinguished and very little damage was done, but in the panic that ensued four women were trampled to death and a dozen people seriously injured. The fire was caused by two candles which were lighted in one of the places of worship and which set fire to the woodwork. Three hundred people were in the place at the time.

The rush for the stairs and the shrieks of the women caused a stampede of worshippers in the other synagogues. They also made a rush for the stairs. The frightened and panic stricken people became wedged on the stairs leading to the second floor.

The policeman on the post rushed in and succeeded in relieving the wedge and then a wild rush for the stairs leading to the street began.

An investigation after the panic had abated revealed the fact that four women had been killed and a number of persons severely injured. The wounded were at once removed to the hospitals.

Killed Seven Men in His Time

And When Placed in Jail Tried to Make the Number Eight.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 23.—Adam Leger, a convict from Clairborne county, who has killed seven men, was brought here yesterday on his way to prison. Leger was put in a cell with Wm. Leach, one of the miners now awaiting trial for participating in the late riots. In May, 1891, Leger murdered Leach's brother, and when the men met yesterday they fought desperately and both were fatally hurt, Leger having one eye torn out.

UNION VETERAN ELECTION.

The Boys Do Not Like the Way the G. A. R. Acted.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The Union Veterans' Union does not like the way in which it is regarded and treated by the Grand Army of the Republic. The union adopted a resolution looking to mutual recognition and co-operation between the Union Veterans' Union and the Grand Army of the Republic. A committee headed by Colonel S. S. Bond was appointed to present the resolution to the naval encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. It reported that the members of the committee were kept waiting for some time in the ante-room and the welcome they received was not similar to that which the Union Veterans' Union would accord a similar committee from the Grand Army of the Republic. General Roberts, of Massachusetts, said he believed in telling things exactly as they were. The committee in charge of the resolution had been very shabbily received. They were kept waiting in the hall without seats, and when finally admitted the reception was a chilly one. They were not received as veterans who had fought for the preservation of the Union, but as citizens of the United States. It was not the kind of reception they deserved.

The report of the committee on resolutions proposing changes in the regulations of the Union Veterans' Union was adopted except that the provision relative to past commanders having a voice, but no vote in all encampments, state or national, was amended so as to require that they must be members of the Union Veterans' Union in good standing at the time of the encampment.

Ex-President Hayes was seen in the hall while the resolutions were under consideration and the proceedings were interrupted and the ex-president called on for a speech. He expressed his pleasuer at meeting the old soldiers, of whom he was one and for whom he had a high regard.

The encampment disregarded the suggestion in General S. S. Yoder's annual address that the office of commander-in-chief b emade a one-term and re-elected General Yoder. General C. C. Emery, of Massachusetts, and James M. Brown, of Ohio, were re-elected first and second deputy commanders respectively. C. C. Sweet, of Michigan, was elected surgeon general, and Edward Warriner, of Connecticut, chaplain.

TO REMAIN AT HOME.

Steerage Passengers Held on the Other Side.

Queenstown, Sept. 23.—In consequence of an order issued by the United States authorities that no second class passengers would be allowed to land unless United States citizens or residents, the Cunard steamer Cephalonia from Liverpool put 40 passengers ashore at Liverpool. Thirty-three others who had never been in the United States were landed here to-day. All will be returned to their homes at the expense of the Cunard company.

OLPHERT IS DEAD.

Dublin, Sept. 23.—Mr. Olphert, the landlord noted for the evictions on his property, is dead.

THE CRONIN CASE.

Hope That the Plot Leading to the Assassination May Be Laid Bare.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—New and interesting developments are expected in the Cronin case. The rumors of a confession, which were so prevalent when O'Sullivan was on his death-bed, have been again revived by the news that Martin Bourk is very sick in the Joliet penitentiary.

It is intimated that Bourk may expose the whole plot, and that his attorneys are endeavoring to induce him to remain silent. On the other hand, the friends of the murdered man are urging the dying convict to clear the mystery that surrounds Cronin's death and enable the ring-leaders in that dark plot to be brought to justice.

Patrick McGarry and James Boland, who have ever since the discovery of the crime spent time and money in trying to bring to light the real murderers, called upon Bourk in the prison infirmary yesterday.

Their visit was not unprofitable, and, although neither will give the details of the conversation, it is plain that they consider the end of their labor is not far off. Bourk has weakened, but whether he will tell all he knows is another question.

"We are nearer our goal than we have ever been since the death of Dr. Cronin," said Patrick McGarry to a reporter this morning. "My conversation with Bourk yesterday was confidential and I cannot at present give the details. In a little while everything will be ready and we will have something to tell the public.

"New facts in the case were discovered and we expect soon to lay the whole plot bare. Bourk has given us valuable information. We are after the real criminals, not the poor dupes who are dying in the penitentiary. I cannot now state the nature of our talk, but its effects may soon be seen. This matter is not going to be dropped until the whole history of it is discovered."

HEAD 'EM THIS WAY.

An Army of Frogs Bothering Minnesota People.

Little Falls, Minn., Sept. 23.—A pest of frogs has come upon this town. For days the streets and sidewalks have been covered with them, so that it is almost impossible to keep from stepping on the slimy creatures. A train on the Little Falls & Dakota railroad was delayed two hours on account of them. The frogs are so thick on the track that hundreds are crushed and the rails become slippery. The frogs are all hopping in a northwesterly direction; hardly a one can be seen going any other way.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 23.—At the meeting of the Buffalo freight committee yesterday it was decided to advance coal rates by rail to Chicago to $2 on October 15.

WERE AFTER GOLD.

Why the Kite Sailed Away to Greenland.

The Peary Expedition Was Not Made Solely in the Interest of Science.

New York, Sept. 23.—It has been learned that the trip to the north of Lieutenant Peary and the Kite was not made solely in the interests of science. A belief in the existence of extensive gold deposits on the coast of Greenland was the real cause which brought about the expedition and secured ample financial backing. From Moravian missionaries in Pennsylvania several years ago Lieutenant Peary secured an inkling of the truth.

From cipher telegrams received here by subscribers to the expedition it has been ascertained that Lieutenant Peary was eminently successful in his trip and it is believed that when he makes his report he will have something to say of the discovery of gold deposits heretofore known only to the Moravian missionaries and the Esquimaux.

FACTS FROM FINDLAY.

Interesting Gossip from Hancock County.

Findlay, Sept. 23.—(Special)—Rabbi David Beard, of Toledo, is in the city, conducting the New Year's religious services for the Hebrews of Findlay.

Circuit court judges of the state fixed December 5 and May 23, 1893, for the dates of Hancock county, as the time for holding court.

Ex-Sheriff Cusic sold Edwin C. to a New York gentleman, who shipped the horse to his home in Tonawanda. A handsome sum was realized for the animal.

As the result of the two rival Evangelical conferences held in the city two pastors were assigned to the Evangelical church at Carey and two applicants now appear for the denominational parsonages and pulpit there.

The ladies of the First M. E. church will give a novel entertainment on Columbus day, October 21, in honor of Christopher Columbus, who will be present with his staunch allies, Ferdinand and Isabella. The decorations will be unique and appropriate.

Findlay lodge, No. 227, F. and A. M., enjoyed a pleasant banquet, after conferring degrees upon candidates, which was gratly enjoyed.

A new Evangelical church building is to be located on the corner of Sandusky and West street.

To-morrow is the annual democratic holiday in this county. Nearly 500 delegates from the city and county will convene in mass convention at the Turner opera house for the purpose of nominating a strong and winning ticket. The influx of new people into this district has materially changed the political complexion and neither party has a walk-away. The county is slightly republican. The democracy have some strong candidates in the field and the ticket will be made as strong as possible. Hon. W. T. Platt will call the convention to order, assisted by Secretary Arford.

FULTON COUNTY FAIR.

Splendid Attendance—Ham Wins the Bicycle Race.

Wauseon, O., Sept. 23.—(Special)—The third and big day of the Fulton county fair (held at Ottokee, a small village four miles north of Wauseon) opened with a slight rain, but, notwithstanding, there were over 10,000 people on the grounds.

They came on foot, horseback, carriages, bicycles, any way to get there, the nearest railroad station being at Wauseon.

This is the first year the fair company have had horse racing. They have a good regulation one-half mile track, and the races were all spirited.

A bicycle race by local wheelmen wound up the day's sport. Harry Ham, of Wauseon, won the race by about eight lengths. Archie Wilkins, of Delta, second. "Funny" Bays, of Wauseon, third.

No fakirs are allowed on the grounds and the merry-go-round has it alone.

Judge Wickham, of Norwalk, O., attended the fair yesterday.

L. E. Miley, formerly in the livery business, has a fine display of carriages.

Wauseon races are billed for October 6, 7 and 8.

Six special trains, two from New York city and the rest from different points in Westchester county will convey the guests to and from the hall. Among the patronesses are many of the best known women in New York, and the assemblage will be one of the most brilliant of the season.

RESULT OF QUARANTINE

Suit Filed Against the Hamburg Company.

Passengers Secured Under False Pretenses.

A Lawyer Wants $10,000 Damage for Being Placed in a Boat Load of Cholera.

New York, Sept. 23.—The first legal steps to recover damages from the Hamburg-American Packet company, by one of the detained passengers on the steamship Normannia, were taken yesterday by ex-Assistant United States District Attorney Cortland S. Van Rensselaer, of No. 2 East Fifteenth street. He filed a libel in the United States district court against the Normannia and her owners, claiming $10,000 damages.

Mr. Van Rensselaer bases his cause for action on the assurance given him by the London agents of the Hamburg-American Packet company that the Normannia would carry no steerage passengers, which, he alleges, they knew to be false.

It is further charged that, besides this falsehood and fraud, the steerage passengers were not properly inspected and purified, that proper medical attendance was not furnished, and that those attacked with cholera on the trip were not properly treated.

Through the lack of these precautions, Mr. Van Rensselaer claims that he was in constant dread of contracting the disease and suffered in body and mind.

The libel was filed by Lawyers Benedict & Benedict, of No. 68 Wall street, and consists of nine specific allegations.

In these Mr. Van Rensselaer says that on August 23, he, having been traveling in Europe and being about to return to this country, purchased, through the agent of the Hamburg-American Packet company in London, a first cabin passage ticket on the steamship Normannia, which was to sail from Hamburg to New York, via Southampton, at which place he was to go aboard.

It came to the knowledge of Mr. Van Rensselaer on August 26, while he was in London, that cholera was raging with great violence in Hamburg, many deaths occurring every day by reason of the disease.

Cholera, he says, is a disease by which the class of passengers which it had been usual for the company to carry on its steamers from Hamburg to New York as steerage passengers was especially liable to be attacked, and the carrying of steerage passengers on the steamer Normannia would expose her cabin passengers to great danger of infection if the disease should break out on board during the voyage, and to their being detained and hindered in the completion of the voyage and in many ways confined and imprisoned and injured by the quarantining of the ship on her arrival in New York.

This, Mr. Van Rensselaer declares, was well known to the steamship company and its agents and servants as well as to himself. He went to the office of the company's agent in London and demanded to know whether it was the intention of the company to transport steerage passengers on the Normannia, it being his intention, as he informed the agents, if such proved to be the fact, not to sail on the ship.

He claims that he was then assured that the Normannia had sailed from Hamburg with no steerage passengers on board. This, the libellant declares, was false and was known to the company to be false, inasmuch as the Normannia had at that time sailed from Hamburg with steerage passengers, and he asserts that the assurance given him was put forward by the company and its agents with intent to deceive him and to induce him not to withdraw from his passage agreement.

With his wife he boarded the Normannia on August 27 at Southampton. The ships of this line do not come to a wharf in Southampton, but the customary method of putting passengers aboard is by means of tugs, which take the passengers from the wharf to the steamship, which anchors six or seven miles from the city.

It was not until he was actually on board the Normannia, he states, that he was aware that there were steerage passengers aboard, and that the information given by the steamship company's agent was false.

The Normannia sailed from Southampton on August 27 and arrived in New York on September 3, during which time cholera broke out among the steerage passengers.

She was put in quarantine and the cabin passengers kept on board until September 11, when they were taken on board the steamboat Stonington and afterward transported in the steamboat Cepheus to Fire Island, from where he was released on September 16.

The company, Mr. Van Rensselaer charges, was not only guilty of direct falsehood, but it failed to conduct itself in accordance with its duty as a common carrier and with its contract with him, in receiving steerage passengers on board the Normannia at Hamburg, in not properly inspecting and purifying those passengers, in not providing sufficient medical attendance, in not properly dealing with those who were attacked with cholera and in not taking proper precautions against the spread of the disease.

Besides, he says, the company did not properly provide and care for the accommodation and treatment of those passengers who were not attacked by the disease after their arrival at the port of New York.

Mr. Van Rensselaer claims, in conclusion, that during the trip, as well as during the time of his detention, he was in constant fear of infection from those who were or might have been attacked by the disease on the Normannia; that he experienced great inconvenience, illness and suffering and pain of body and mind by reason of such apprehension, and by reason of his being kept in confinement 13 days after his arrival in the port of New York, and by reason of the privation and lack of proper food and accomodation; and that he is entitled to have damages therefor to the amount of $10,000.

Mr. Van Rensselaer therefore prays the court will condemn and sell the Normannia in order that his claim may be paid.

TRUE BILLS FOUND.

National Guard Officers Indicted.

Pittsburg, Sept. 23.—True bills were found by the grand jury against Colonel Hawkins, Lieutenant Colonel Streator, and Surgeon Grimm, of the Tenth regiment, N. G. P., for assault and battery in the Private Iams case. Two indictmentss were returned against each of the defendants. Iams, is will be remembered, was hung up by the thumbs and afterwards drummed out of the camp at Homestead, for cheering when the news was received that Anarchist Bergman had shot H. C. Frick.

SUES A SHOW.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 23.—Richard K. Fox, of the New York Police Gazette, has brought suit in the common pleas court of this (Seneca) county against Willis P. Howells and Frank Gebert, former partners and proprietors of the Kindergarten Comedy company. The suit is to collect $568.56 which he claims is due for supplies and printed matter furnished.

INSANE FEROCITY.

H. Long Kills Wm. Rice in Harrison County, Missouri, and Drags His Body a Quarter of a Mile.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 23.—William Rice, a farmer, was found with his head split open, near Bethany, Harrison county. A trail of blood led from the body to the residence of H. Long, a near neighbor. A posse assembled at Longs' house and found him and his wife in a cave. Long held the crowd off while his wife wrote a statement of the murder. When that was finished Long drew a razor and attempted to commit suicide. He made a vicious slash at his throat, but a member of the posse caught his arm just in time, and after a desperate struggle he was disarmed and brought to Bethany and placed in jail.

Long stated that Rice was a member of a gang that had been trying for some days to get him out and kill him; that Rice came to his house on the night of the murder and tried to get him out. He then, to save himself, struck Rice with an ax, killing him instantly. After Rice had ceased to struggle Long compelled his wife and little child to assist him in carrying the dead body to the Rice farm, about a quarter of a mile away.

Three times Mrs. Long fainted on that terrible midnight journey, the sight of the awful look on the dead man's face, his blood and brains slowly oozing out of the terrible wound in his head where the keen ax had sunk itself, being more than she could stand. Each time when the poor woman dropped her end of the ghastly burden and sank to the ground the murderer calmly sat down and waited for her to revive while her little daughter, horror-stricken and dazed by the horrible drama in which she was forced to take part could only cover her eyes and try to shut out the scene.

A plain track of blood was left from the Long residence to that of the murdered man, so that when the body was found no difficulty was experienced in following the trail up to where the murder was committed.

On returning to his house Long compelled his wife and daughter to go with him to a cave at the rear of the homestead, where, well armed, he awaited the approach of the mob he confidently expected would lynch him.

There is no doubt that Long is insane. He has a brother in the asylum and another under guard here, who will be taken there this week.

TAKING PRECAUTION.

Berlin is Full of Disinfectant Odors.

The Customs Officials Are Handling Baggage Very Carefully.

London, Sept. 23.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Berlin says:

"The precautions taken by the authorities are so universally obstrusive to the sight and the smell that they are calculated to throw a new arrival into a state of hypochrondriac alarm. The medical examination of trains is repeated four times between Cologne and Berlin. The inspection is of a superficial character but doubtless is adequate. It is noticeable how perfunctory the custom officials become. They handle baggage as if they do not desire to disturb the repose of the bacilli. The whole city, especially the public officers, is redolent of the odor of a dissecting room. Failure to comply with the sanitary regulations is punished by a fine if the offender is a poor person and by imprisonment if the guilty one is rich.

"The cholera will prove a boom to Hamburg and other large cities if it leads to the better housing of the poor. Although they cannot be compared with Hamburg, the older parts of Berlin are deplorably overcrowded. One case in point is a single building which is occupied by 250 tenants, mostly families.

"Thirty-six smaller dwellings open off onto one passage. The windows in these wretched structures are often stuffed with rags and papers instead of being supplied with glass. The average size of the room is 16 feet by 10. Some families in which there are five children have only one bed. The condition of these dwellings baffles description. They are full of dirt and vermin and veritable hotbeds of disease.

"In the country districts the state of affairs is often worse. Cases are on record of four families consisting of 22 persons occupying a single room divided off into sections for the use of the different families by chalk lines. All married servants on an estate are housed in one room.

BRYAN NOTES.

The Pioneers Have a Picnic—Personal Mention.

Bryan, O., Sept. 23.—(Special)—Yesterday was the event of the annual picnic of the Pioneers' and Old Settlers' association of Williams county, and was held in Bryan. The forenoon was given to hearing reports of secretary, treasurer and the vic presidents of the several townships of the county. In the afternoon a speech by Hon. Chas. A. Bowersox was listened to with a great deal of interest. Talks from other speakers were listened to and a grand good meeting was the result.

Grandfather Parcher, of Adario, O., was here in attendance at the wedding of his granddaughter, Miss Anna Parcher, to Mr. Charles Currier, of Cleveland, Wednesday night. The old gentleman is quite active for one of his age, having just passed his 75th year. He is a bridge builder by occupation, and still practices his profession.

Emery Davis was up from Toledo Tuesday night.

Carpenters in Bryan just now are quite busy and from present appearances the building sason will continue for some time yet.

A rainbow social will be given by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. in Carroll's hall to-morrow evening. An invitation is extended to all.

Miss Jennie Harris goes to Toledo tomorrow to engage in evangelical work with Rev. Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Currier left here yesterday for Cleveland, where they will begin housekeeping at once.

THEY GROANED.

The Wyoming's Passengers Have No Use for Jenkins.

Quarantine, Sept. 23.—The steamboat Cepheus which left Fire Island at 7:30 a. m. for New York with the cabin passengers of the Wyoming, arrived at quarantine at 10:45. She will proceed to the Guion line pier and discharge her passengers.

As the Cepheus lay at the dock Dr. Jenkins came down from his house to confer with Capt. Pearce. Some very uncomplimentary remarks were hurled at the health officer as he approached the wharf. When the bell rang to start, the Cepheus the 225 passengers crowded the saloon deck forward at the command of their leader and gave three groans for Dr. Jenkins.

Louis Weinhagen, of 14 First street, died from cholera at the reception hospital this morning. He had been sick five days.

CUT RATES.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 23.—A New York dispatch last night said that the Lackawanna had met the Erie's cut of a $6 passenger rate from New York to Buffalo. Division Passenger Agent Bodle, of the Erie, denies that such a rate is being made by his road. He says that no instructions have been received at his office for such a rate, and that tariff rates are being maintained at all points.

AT A TRUST'S MERCY

What the Great Coal Combine Means.

Dealers Are Held in a Cast Iron Grip.

The Entire Output of the Mines Is In the Control of the Great Reading Syndicate.

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—The trade-mark of the great anthracite coal trust might well be "excelsior"—higher. For the past few weeks a power, invisible to the coal buyers in this city, has caused the price of fuel to advance steadily. The coal dealers of this city, and indeed of the United States, claim to be powerless in the grasp of the trust. The anthracite coal of this country is mined in a comparatively small section of Eastern Pennsylvania. These fields are reached only by four railroads, the Reading system being the largest and wealthiest of these corporations. During the summer the officers of the Reading and the other roads together with a number of the heaviest coal operators, formed a gigantic trust. Their plan is to directly control the entire output of the anthracite mines. Last year at this time hard coal was sold here at $5.25 per ton. Now it cannot be purchased for less than $6.25 per ton, and, if the coal trust but speaks the word, it may be $10 per ton to-morrow. The consumers and the coal dealers are absolutely powerless.

A leading wholesale coal dealer yesterday spoke as follows on the subject of the trust: "The greatest sufferers from this combination are the poor people. The well-to-do class had a chance, and many of them did lay in their winter's coal before the advance was made in prices. The poor are compelled to buy a ton of fuel at a time. Of course I do not know whether there will be another advance, but I suppose there will be.

"Coal is selling at a dollar a ton more that it brought last year at this time, and the trust might double or treble the price and we could not help ourselves in the least. The scheme of the trust is as follows: It has either direct control of the mine product or else it compels all the smaller operators to adopt its scale of prices. This is an easy matter, for in case any operator is disposed to be stubborn the railroad companies simply refuse to handle his coal.

"It is in that case impossible for him to get it to any market and, of course, he cannot sell it at any price.

"You might think that an operator might agree to sell at regular rates, and then cut or give a rebate to his customers. The trust watches every one of them as a cat does a mouse, and in case of a breach of agreement the luckless operator is cut off absolutely from every market.

"This punishment has been mercilessly administered in a few cases, and the effect has been to hold the rest of the anti-trust operators in subjection. We wholesale dealers have to buy from the combine at their price.

"They figure out what they think is a fair profit for us, and it is by no means a large one, and then tell us what price we may sell to the retail dealers. If one of us sells a cent less than regular prices we are blacklisted and cannot buy another pound of coal. Then the retail men who buy from us are given a price list and we are compelled to see that they follow it. If one of my retail customers sells coal at a lower rate I am held responsible and my supply is cut off.

"We have to pay men to watch these small dealers just as the trust's men watch them and us. The sum and substance of the whole thing is that we are completely in the power of the trust, and we can be driven out of business to-morrow.

"There is no hope of breaking the trust this year, but we do not think it will live through the next season. If the governor of Pennsylvania and the attorney general had taken hold of the matter in time they might have crushed the trust, but I suppose the members of the combine have contracts which secures them all of this year's output.

"The Pennsylvania railroad has been preparing to attack the great combine, but the tardiness of Gov. Pattison has given the trust at least a year's life. A great deal more soft coal will be used this winter than last, but I do not anticipate any advance in prices. Soft coal is found in so many localities that it is not so easy to corner the supply as in the case of anthracite. One feature of the case is the fact that the new system requires the jobbers to have more capital. You see they charge us more per ton and our collections are slower, while the profit on a ton of coal is no more, if as much as it was before the trust was formed.

"Then again we are in total ignorance of the state of the market. The price is fixed without the slightest regard for the law of supply and demand. I may receive a letter in the next mail informing me that on Monday coal will raise or fall $5 a ton.

"There is little danger of a drop, however. The entire coal trade of the country is tied up and the dealers are mere puppets in the hands of the trust. They can exercise no business tact, but have to do just as they are ordered.

The feeling against the trust is unanimous among all the dealers here. One of them said: "If I sold my brother a ton of coal at 25 cents less than the scale price, I might be driven out of business. If the trust found it out I could not get another ton."

It has been suggested that all the dealers refuse to handle the trust coal and try to force it to terms. In reply to this the members of the combine say that they will establish agencies all over the country and sell the coal themselves and pocket the profits of the jobber and retailer. The general opinion is that they are perfectly able to do this, and hence the dealers are very chary about saying a word against the big monopoly.

CROOKED RACING.

Serious Charges Made Against Latonia.

O. O. West Stirs Up a Hornet's Nest.

Games of Base Ball Played by the Big League—Standing of the Clubs—Notes.

Cincinnati, Sept. 23.—This morning's Post has the following:

Latonia is rotten!

Craps, shells, three-card monte and even bunko are scarcely in it with the skin game across the river.

The recent trouble between O. O. West, jr., a horse owner, and Starter Ferguson, led to an investigation of the methods practiced at Latonia, and the result brands the track as the foulest, most putrid and most dishonest race track in the country.

Several days ago a well known stake horse known as Forerunner, was entered at Latonia. The day he was to start he was entered in poor company and should have won in a walk, considering his form and past performances.

The horse was the favorite, and carried three-quarters of the money bet on that race. His backer almost fainted when he saw Forerunner almost left at the post. He was not able to make up the time, and was beaten by a rank "plater.'

After the race, O. O. West, jr., owner of the horse, had warm words with Starter Ferguson, accusing him of purposely leaving his horse at the post.

Ferguson threatened to report West to the judges, and West threatened to kill Ferguson, and to tell the judges a story about Ferguson that would prove his crookedness and dishonesty.

Mr. West referred especially to a transaction at New Orleans which he said branded Ferguson as crooked.

The public became aroused and looked anxiously forward to the investigation which had been called by the judge at Latonia.

Just when the public was promised the truth, the investigation was suddenly broken off.

Thursday morning the judges announced that they had heard both sides of the case and that the trouble had been adjusted satisfactorily to both parties.

This did not satisfy the betters, and complaints Thursday morning were loud and strong regarding the action of the judges in hushing up the case.

A reporter made an investigation, and learned the story to which Mr. West referred when he charged Ferguson with crookedness in New Orleans.

It is as follows: In March, 1890, during the winter meeting at New Orleans there was employed at the track a man nemed George Frazer, who acted as assistant to Starter Ferguson, who was then employed at the Crescent City track. In one of the races during the meeting Orphan Boy was entered along with some very fast company. When the day of the race came, Overton was hired to ride Orphan Boy, and he went to the post at 8 to 1.

The man Frazer, who acted as Ferguson's starter, "tipped off" Orphan Boy to win to two gentlemen who are now in Cincinnati.

The horses went to the post, and after several breaks Ferguson dropped the flag, leaving the two good horses at the post. Orphan Boy got off six or eight lengths ahead and was never touched during the race. In the same race were two horses who, had they got off, would have beaten Orphan Boy in a walk. After the race there was an awful howl, and ever since Starter Ferguson has been accused of "standing in" on that particular race.

If Charley Mitchell, the sprinter-pugilist of England, is really desirous of fighting "Jim" Corbett he will be accommodated. Corbett cherishes no love for Mitchell, and he says it will afford him infinite pleasure to punch the bragging Englisher down and out. When I met the champion yesterday at the Bijou theater he was hard at work rehearsing the part assigned him in his new play, but he stopped long enough to tell me what he thought of Mitchell's challenge and forfeit of $2,500.

"To begin with," said Corbett, "Mitchell is a bluffer and a bully who is not on the level at any stage of the game. Therefore I fear that this challenge is like others which hve emanated from him, full of wind and bluff and only an advertising dodge. I sincerely hope, however, that the wily fakir is in earnest this time so that I can get a chance to show him up and give him what he richly deserves—a mighty good licking. Of all the boxers in the world to-day Mitchell is the most contemptible. He is a common barroom thug who fights through the papers and not in the ring, but if he sets his feet on American soil he will have to make a match with me or return to England in a hurry branded as a coward.

"Mitchell, I think, issued the challenge for the purpose of advertising himself and coming here to tour the country, grab all the good American dollars he can lay hands on and return to England without fighting. He will see what a grievous mistake he has made if he comes here. Although it will be impossible for me to fight for a year—a fact, by the way, which Mitchell had in mind when he wrote his challenge—owing to theatrical engagements. I will make him post a forfeit of $5,000 with any responsible newspaper in New York city and force him to sign articles to fight me as soon as my engagements terminate. My reason for asking Mitchell to post $5,000 is to make sure of getting a fight with him. If he were to post only a small amount he could get up a show, make a lot of money and skip back to England and forfeit the amount posted. With $5,000 up Mitchell could not afford to take any such chance and it would show that he meant business."

When Corbett was asked for his opinion of "Mike" Donovan's attack on him he said: "If 'Mike' has seen fit to air his grievances in the newspapers that is his business, not mine. I have always treated him with the utmost consideration, and I regret very much that he has gone out of his way to attack me. I certainly would not have done anything so unkind and ungenerous to him." Further than this Corbett would say nothing, but maintained a dignified silence.

Manager Brady said: "I think that Corbett has treated Mr. Donovan very generously. Mr. Corbett paid every cent of Donovan's expenses to and from New Orleans and treated him royally. He also boarded his son at Asbury Park for three months free of charge. When Corbett fought Dominick McCaffrey in Brooklyn he turned over half of the receipts of the house to Donovan in recognition of favors he had done for him. Last winter, when Donovan was given a benefit by the members of the New York Athletic club in Lenox Lyceum, in this city, Donovan asked Corbett, who was then in Buffalo, N. Y., to wind up with him. Corbett at that time was matched to fight Sullivan and was drawing crowded houses. The night of the benefit Corbett had an engagement worth $1,000, but he gave it up and came on and sparred with Donovan for nothing.

"When Donovan was in New Orleans the members of the Southern Athletic club of that city refused to admit him for reasons of their own. Corbett was opposed to this action on the part of the club and appealed t its officials to admit Donovan, with the result that they relented. Had Corbett not made his plea Donovan would not have been allowed in the club house. And yet Donovan says Corbett has been ungrateful to him."

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

Independence, Sept. 23.—At 6 o'clock, Johnson, the boy bicyclist, was announced to start against the mile record, flying start. The announcement brought out a large crowd from the city and every horseman, driver, and rubber on the track. At least 50 watches were held on the mile. As in his previous mile, he started 10 feet back of the wire to comply with L. A. W. rules. It was decided by T. W. Eck, Johnson's trainer, to have two runners accompany him, each going one-half mile. Uncle Henry was the horse selected for the first half of the journey. They flew to the first quarter in 29 1-4, and reached the half-mile pole in 58 3-4. Here Ned Gordon joined him and together they finished the most wonderful mile ever yet ridden. The third quarter was passed in 1:28 1-2. Here the whip was vigorously applied to Gordon and the mile was completed in the phenomenal time of 1:56 3-5. So many timers were held on the outside that no word was necessary from the stand to tell the crowd that the record was smashed. Seven official timers gave the time, the slowest caught stating that the slowest was good enough. The track and day were perfect. Johnson and Eck go from here to Peoria to the bicycle tournament on the 27th, and he will meet all the best riders, including Tyler, Taylor, Windle and Zimmerman.

DEACON'S CASE.

Interesting Trial in the Paris Courts.

The American Banker Is Game to the Last and Will Not Be Bought Off.

Paris, Sept. 23.—The preliminary proceedings in the Deacon divorce case were taken up in the Seine Assizes to-day. The French authorities have exhausted every technicality of the law, and have brought the greatest pressure to bear upon Mr. Deacon to induce him to drop the case, but he remained obdurate, and even refused a proposition on the part of the French government to accept a full pardon in return for his pledge to leave France forever.

Deacon evidently thought that the satisfaction of killing his wife's betrayer, and airing the disgusting details of Abeille's crime in court were well worth a year's imprisonment, for he never entertained the Frenchman's overtures for a moment. It is claimed by his friends that one principal reason why so much severity is shown toward him is that men like Abeille are so numerous in France that, in punishing Deacon, they are protecting themselves by giving notice to foreigners that Frenchmen who insult or mislead their wives and daughters must not be interfered with, and especially must not be killed.

SERIOUS CHARGE.

New York, Sept. 23.—Herman Bueglisen, a sewing machine dealer at 503 Broadway, Williamsburg, to-day made oath that a gang of Poles and Russians in that locality had banded to make money by burning buildings. On his statement Morris Schozoholy, Charles Solomon and Joseph Cogn were arrested and held in the Lee avenue court for examination. Buegisen's affidavit is very startling in its details.

OFF FOR CHILI.

Grand Naval Display in Valparaiso Harbor.

Uncle Sam Wants to Show the People That He Has Forgotten the Late Unpleasantness.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—Preparations are almost complete for the sailing of the American squadron which will take part in the friendly demonstration which is to be given in the harbor of Valparaiso.

The mission to Chile has been planned for the purpose of showing the Chileans that Uncle Sam has forgotten the late unpleasantness, and is willing to renew the ties of friendship with that country.

The orders originally sent to Mare Island fixed October 1 as the day of sailing, but instructions were afterward sent to have everything in readiness a week earlier if possible. The fleet will comprise the San Francisco, Charleston, Boston, Baltimore, and possibly the Yorktown.

The vessels will stop at several South American ports, but will tarry longest at Valparaiso, where there will be a general round of entertainments and exchange of courtesies. Admiral Gherardi will tender a special invitation to the new government of Chile to participate in the review which will take place in the spring in New York harbor.

It is probable that none of these ships, with the exception of the Baltimore, will appear in the review, as it is learned that, between the Bering sea difficulty and the Hawaiian and South Sea Island complications, it would be unsafe to withdraw them from the Pacific coast.

TO RUN HER DOWN.

A Crew After the South Portland.

They Are Loaded for Trouble and Will Try to Overtake the Ship.

New York, Sept. 23.—The World this morning says the Venezuelan minister, General Peraza, has succeeded in obtaining and arming a vessel with which to pursue and if possible capture the South Portland. The vessel obtained was built for the United States revenue service, but failing to come up to the government's requirements was rejected. She is said to be capable of steaming 18 miles an hour and has been fitted with a battery of rapid fire guns. Her name is not made public just now because it may make trouble for her owner. The vessel slipped out of the harbor just after dark last night. She has a large crew, mostly Venezuelans, but among them are four Englishmen who served in the royal navy as gunners. The Venezuelan minister is confident that she will overhaul the enemy's ship.

ODD FELLOWS.

Important Action Taken at the Portland Meeting.

Portland, Ogn., Sept. 23.—One of the most important things done by the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows was the adoption, by a vote of 120 to 25, of a resolution declaring it expedient to remove the headquarters from Columbus to Baltimore.

Another matter entitled to mention was the indefinite postponement of consideration of a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the lodge that a person otherwise qualified who is engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquors is "not of such good moral character" as contemplated by section 2, article 16, of the constitution, and is therefore not eligible to membership of a subordinate lodge. Discussion of this resolution occupied almost the entire afternoon session. There was also a lively debate over a proposed amendment to the constitution reducing the minimum age of admission to the order from 21 to 18 years. It, too, was defeated.

CAMPAIGN PROGRAM OF MILLS.

Corsicana, Tex., Sept. 23.—Hon. Roger Q. Mills will leave for Illinois the second week in next month, speaking at some point in Forman's district October 11; at Quincy, October 13; some point in Cable's district, October 14; Burlington, Ia., October 15; at points in Minnesota from October 17 to October 22, inclusive; in Wisconsin, October 24 to 31, inclusive, and close the campaign at Cleveland, November 5.

DISASTROUS BLAZE.

Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 23.—The entire plant of the Union School Seat company, toegther with all the manufactured stock on hand, was completely destroyed by fire last night. The loss will be from $250,000 to $300,000. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

STABBED TO DEATH.

Cincinnati, Sept. 23.—Amanda Cain, aged 15, the daughter of a farmer at Independence, Ky., was stabbed to death by Arthur Watson, a young farmer. Watson wanted to marry Miss Cain, but her parents objected. Watson found Miss Cain working in the garden and spoke to her, but she would not answer him. He then drew a knife and stabbed her.

REVOLUTION.

It Continues to Spread in the South.

It Is More Natural for the People There to Fight Than Eat.

New York, Sept. 23.—A special to the Herald from Washington says the epidemic of revolutions in South America seems to be spreading. Colombia is now in danger.

Word has reached the state department that serious trouble is brewing in consequence of the quarantine established against European and American vessels. The trouble commenced by the action of the authorities at Savanilla in firing on the British mail steamer Atrota as a warning to keep out of port.

The British residents have resented this action and other foreigners, especially merchants, are complaining bitterly at the action of the Panama authorities in closing all ports against European and American ships. Business is said to be completely paralyzed and general discontent prevails as a result.

The American consul has advised that a cruiser be sent there as a means of preventing trouble and to protect American interests should the emergency arise. His request has been promptly complied with. Admiral Walker was telegraphed to Wednesday night to despatch the Concord to Colon immediately, and he replied yesterday that the department's order had been complied with. The Concord should arrive at Colon to-night.

FOUND IN THE WOODS.

A Bank Teller Brought Back to Justice.

He Was Wandering Like a Wild Man and Was Half Starved.

Nanaimo, B. C., Sept. 23.—C. H. Bonner, the teller of the bank of British Columbia, who is wanted for fraudulently appropriating funds of the bank, was captured yesterday.

He had been roaming in the woods for the past eight days in a starving condition and appeared to be afraid to move.

When discovered he was in a crouching posture in a corner of a lonely hut. He made no resistance.

His depredations, which have been committed for over a period of 18 months, are said to exceed $20,000.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Clayton, Del., Sept. 23.—The boiler in Carson's factory exploded, injuring three persons, blowing off the roof of the building and sending the boiler eight feet into the air. The injured, who were brought to the Delaware hospital, this city, were Oliver Brown, of Havre de Grace, Md., unmarried, hurt internally and badly scalded, injuries fatal; Jacob Kerchley, of Hartford county, Md., married, scalded and both legs and left hip broken, recovery doubtful, has three children; Levi Ransom, slightly scalded and knocked senseless, injuries not serious.

TRAFFIC MANAGERS.

New York, Sept. 23.—The committee on general passenger agents representing the eastern lines and New England roads and the Central Traffic association is again in session in this city to-day with a view of establishing rates to the world's fair. The problem is a difficult one especially in view of the strong demonstrations of feeling in different parts of the country in favor of workingmen's trains at a dollar a trip. The committee seems to be in favor of the lowest possible rate.

NOTICE.

Fernando A. Crumb and Leila Crumb, his wife, whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 3rd day of September, 1892, Edward D. Moore as plaintiff, filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Lucas County, Ohio, against them and others, the object and prayer of which is to foreclose two certain mortgages made by one William H. England to said Edward D. Moore on lot (25) twenty-five, block (24) twenty-four, Hicks Farm Addition to Toledo, Lucas County, Ohio. One made on the 3rd day of January A. D., 1891, to secure the payment of six promissory notes, each in the sum of $100, all dated January 3, 1891, and payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on the 1st day of July of the years 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896 and 1897, respectively, with interest from January 3rd, 1891, at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. The other mortgage made on the 26th day of March, 1891, to secure the payment of one promissory note of same date for $50, payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on or before two years from the date thereof, with interest from said date at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. Said petition alleges that said Fernando A. Crumb holds the legal title to said above described lot subject to the plaintiff's mortgage liens thereon. Said petition prays for the sale of said real estate to pay the sums due on said notes.

On September 23rd, 1846, the planet Neptune was first seen by Dr. Galle, of Berlin.

The discovery was made as the result of a letter from the French astronomer, Le Verrier, who taking the variations of Uranus from its orbit, as the basis of his calculations, had determined that these would be caused by a planet situated where Neptune was found to be.

Tip for Building Associations.

Attorney General Richards yesterday rendered an opinion of interest to the building associations of the state. He holds that the Corcoran law does not permit a building association organized under state laws to pay its operating expenses or any part of them out of the reserve fund which is required, but that the association can use all of its net earnings in the payment of expenses.

Death of Mrs. Murphy.

In the death of Mrs. Thomas S. Murphy at her home, 2017 Hewey street, yesterday, Toledo loses one of the oldest pioneers and most respected of her residents. Mrs. Murphy, who was 66 years of age, was the mother of J. J. and D. J. Murphy, the well-known Summit street shoe merchants. She was a lady highly regarded for her many virtues of head and heart, and many a friend will learn of her death with sincere regret.

Taxpayer Wants Help.

An application for relief that means much was made at the infirmary office this morning. A citizen signing himself "Taxpayer," requested help on this ground alone, feeling himself entitled to a part of what was going. In this day of alleged prosperity under the McKinley bill, it seems rather peculiar that even taxpayers should desire a portion of the county's alms. But possibly everyone is not happy and contented with the present order of things.

Real Estate Men Called to Meet.

A meeting of real estate men and business men generally has been called at Geo. E. Pomeroy's office, for the purpose of selecting representatives to the meeting of the National Real Estate association, to be held at Buffalo, October 4, 5 and 6.

A large attendance is especially urged of all who take an interest in promoting the influence of Toledo. The representation at the Buffalo meeting should be large and the object to advertise Toledo.

The Ticker is Resting for Awhile.

The ticker in the pool room on Madison street didn't tick to-day and the operator didn't call out this afternoon that the horses were close up in the home stretch and whipping hard. The reason was because the room has been closed up for the time being.

Chief of Police Raitz says he ordered the room closed this morning, but Joseph Casper, the proprietor, says he received no notice, but that he discontinued business voluntarily.

The Hadley—Burdick Boats.

Mr. G. G. Hadley and Leander Burdick returned last evening from Bay City, where they had been negotiating for the purchase of not one boat, as stated in the Bee yesterday, but two. Negotiations have not been closed, but Mr. Burdick said to a Bee this morning that the indications were favorable to a speedy consummation.

Mr. Hadley, speaking on the subject, said the boats they are after are two of the finest schooners on the lakes, fully equipped with steam apparatus. One will tow after the Hadley and the other with the Panther.

Judge Scribner Will Lead.

The republican circuit judicial convention at Toledo last Saturday, nominated ex-Congressman Wickham, of Norwalk, as the opponent of Judge Scribner, the democratic incumbent and candidate for re-election, of Toledo. There is no more able or impartial judge on the circuit bench than Judge Scribner; he is satisfactory to republicans as well as democrats; he is popular in his own county, and the voters of Lucas will see that he is elected. Wickham may run, but Judge Scribner will lead him just the same.—Wood County Democrat.

Illegal Gas Bonds.

The safe in the city auditor's office contains illegal natural gas bonds of the face value of about $600,000. They are all signed by J. K. Hamilton, as mayor, and G. H. Cole, as city clerk. They are mostly for $500 and $1,000 each and would become due in 1899, 1904 and 1909. They are the bonds that were refused by Spitzer & Co., on account of a technical irregularity in the phraseology. Steps will probably be taken next week to have them burned, as the city might be held if any of them got into the hands of an innocent purchaser.

Street Car Trouble Settled.

The trouble over the Field avenue bridge will probably be amicably adjusted, as Superintendent Lang does not intend to ask the men to run cars over it if they are afraid, and to-day passengers are being transferred.

Mr. Byron said this morning that he did not fear a strike. The only difficulty existing between the men and the company will be settled to the men's satisfaction.

There will be a meeting of the horse-car men this evening, but it is not likely that it will be necessary for them to take any action.

Sunday School Convention at Sylvania.

The second convention of the Sylvania Township Sunday School association will be held to-morrow at Ginge's hall. Teams will be at the terminus of the Monroe street car line at 9 o'clock to convey those who go from Toledo. The convention opens at 10 o'clock, and many interesting topics will be discussed. On the program are Marion Lawrance, M. H. Davis, A. R. Crittenden, L. B. Lake, Thos Gibbs, M. Bittner, Nellie Otjen and others, and music will be furnished by the Toledo colored choir. A line of interest is the note, "Bring your lunch basket and come."

Extensive Repairing.

There are some extensive repairs being made at the Toledo asylum, especially in the men's strong ward, where the wainscoting has been torn down and the walls plastered.

Two artesian wells are being drilled, and considerable repairing is being done to the grounds.

The experienced landscape artist who had charge of the grounds during the summer, has left, but the evidence of his exquisite taste is everywhere visible.

There are about 1,200 patients at present, a large per cent. of them being convalescent.

Only the Drunks Were Disposed of.

There were a large number of cases on the police court docket this morning, but only a few of them were tried. Inebriates were disposed of as follows: John O'Connell, $5 and costs; John Gallagher, marked off the docket; Wendel Brener, continued until tomorrow; Henry Gang'a, $5 and costs; Thos. Richardson, costs; Thomas Daley, costs; John Daley, costs; John Robinson, costs; Nelson Robinson, costs. The cases against William and Bertie Smith, charged with disturbance, were continued until Monday. Thos. Skahill, convicted of neglecting his children, was unable to furnish the requisite bail and was sentenced to pay the costs and serve three months in the workhouse.

The T. & O. C. Meeting.

It looks as if the T. & O. C. Railroad company were after all to get control of the T., C. & C. A meeting of the Toledo & Ohio Central Extension railway stockholders will be held next Thursday to pass upon the proposition to purchase that part of the T., C. & C. which is already in operation, viz., from Toledo to the village of Ridgeway, where the line intersects the Big Four. Mortgage bonds in the sum of $2,500,000 at a rate of interest not exceeding 5 per cent per annum, will probably be issued for the purpose of extension and construction. A proposition to increase the capital stock from $1,500,000 to $6,500,000 will also be voted upon, all the chances at present being in favor of such action. A proposition will also be considered to extend the Columbus division of the T. & O. C. from its terminus at Columbus to Ridgeway, on the lines originally laid out by President Burke, of the T., C. & C., and his conferes.

HEALTH MATTERS.

Toledo in Splendid Shape—The Five Immigrants O. K.

Everything was quiet to-day at the headquarters of the health board. The work of cleaning up is going on all over the city, and the sanitary condition of Toledo is now better than it has been in some time.

The five immigrants referred to in yesterday's Bee were stopped upon alighting from a train at the Pennsylvania station in the afternoon, but as they were first-class passengers on the boat that brought them over, and as they also had a clean bill of health, they were allowed to proceed to their destination on Paige street.

Two other immigrants were stopped at the Union depot this morning, but they showed a clean bill of health and were not molested.

MOVING THIS WAY.

The Long Distant Telephone Line—Property Purchased at Maumee.

It will not be so very long now until Toledo can talk with Chicago about the world's fair or New York about the cholera by telephone over the long-distance line from New York to Chicago.

Yesterday District Superintendent Chas. E. Mosley was in the city and closed up the purchase of the Zence property in Maumee, where a station will be established.

The necessary buildings will be erected at once, and other preparations completed for the speedy operation of the line. Two operators will be located at this point.

The line will not run into Toledo direct, but will be extended along the old Perrysburg turnpike. Connection will be made to Toledo over a leased line.

FRED WHIPPLE IN TROUBLE.

Arrested In Cleveland on a Requisition From Governor McKinley.

Fred H. Whipple, the manager of the O'Dowd's Neighbors dramatic company, was taken in charge by Detectives Granger and Lawrence last evening upon the charge of obtaining money under false pretense. This was done under a requisition from Gov. McKinley, brought here by John Nicholson, chief of police of Pittsfield, Mass. The Pittsfield authorities have been in communication with the police of this city, and Deputy McMahon has had charge of the case, and notified the eastern authorities where Whipple was located. The charge against Whipple as related by Mr. Nicholson is as follows: Last August Whipple was in Pittsfield, and he induced a friend to indorse a draft for $100 on the Fred H. Whipple Electrical company, of New York. The money was obtained on it, but for some reason it has never been paid. Nicholson also said that this draft was cashed at the Pittsfield National bank and that drafts for a like amount were cashed by the Agricultural National bank and the Third National bank, all of the same city. He said that the Whipple Electrical company used to be a large concern and that Whipple was the president.

An interview was had with the prisoner and he put a very different face on the matter. He said: "This is simply a scheme to collect a civil debt. There is only one draft which I had cashed. That I drew on my company and it has never been presented to me for payment. I have been ready and willing to pay the draft, and am ready now. I hate to go back and leave my company, as it will cause me considerable expense."

Whipple was taken to the central station first, and later was transferred to the county jail. He was allowed to remain in the sheriff's office until the theater was over, when the business of his company was placed in the hands of an agent.

ALLEGED THIEF CAUGHT

On the Charge of Robbing the U. S. Mail.

Carrier Rimler Nicely Caught in a Trap Laid for Him by Superintendent Rike—Bound Over.

Paul J. Rimler, a substitute postoffice carrier, was arrested this forenoon on the charge of robbing the mails.

Valuable packages of jewelry have been missed ever since Rimler's appointment on July 25, 1892, and Superintendent of Mails J. C. Rike set a trap into which the alleged thief stepped last evening.

A jewelry case containing a $12 ring addressed to A. E. Weiber at the Lion store, was the bait and Rimler went for it and was caught.

Similar packages addressed to Kapp, Broer, and other jewelers have been missed or lost.

Rimler had a hearing before United States Commissioner Beckham to-day and was bound over in the sum of $1,000 to the December term of the United States court.

DEMOCRATIC Congressional Convention

The Democrats of the Ninth Congressional District of Ohio, comprising the counties of Fulton, Lucas, Ottawa and Wood, are hereby notified to meet in convention in Bowling Green, Wood County, at 10 o'clock a. m.,

ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1892,

for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for congress to be supported at the November election.

The basis of representation in this convention will be one vote for every one hundred votes, and one for every fraction of 50 and over, cast for James E. Campbell for Governor in 1891. Upon this basis the several counties are entitled to the following vote in convention:

Fulton	17
Lucas	85
Ottawa	29
Wood	46

L. C. COLE, Secretary. W. J. COLBURN, Chairman.

Democratic Judicial Convention

The Democratic Judicial Convention for the nomination of a Common Please Judge of the First Sub-division of the Fourth Judicial District will be held at Fremont, Ohio, on the 29th day of September, 1892, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. The delegates to said convention are apportioned as follows:

Lucas County	85
Ottawa County	29
Sandusky County	35
Huron County	31
Erie County	38

GEO. B. BOONE, Chairman.
J. M'CRYSTAL, Sec'y.

Hill's next gun will be fired in Buffalo.

Grover's great letter of acceptance will be given to the public next Monday.

Well, well, the safe makers have formed a trust, presumably to lock up all the other trusts. This is a combination that will pinch people who are able to stand it, but the protest will be very loud.

Gov. Boies is making a vigorous campaign in Iowa and republicans are beginning to fear his great popularity will swing the state into the democratic column again this year. There is certainly democratic hope in that ancient, rock-ribbed republican state.

Republican papers having exhausted themselves inquiring as to the whereabout of Gov. Gray, of Indiana, suddenly discovered this week that he is at Gray Gables, Buzzard's Bay, in consultation with Grover Cleveland. The conference bodes no good for the republicans in Indiana.

So thoroughly possessed with the idea that the present cholera visitation is a German affair is the Canadian town of Longuel, that the authorities have ordered that no German shall be permitted within its limits until the scare is entirely over. A strict quarantine against the language is the order.

The indictment of Peck, the traitorous labor commissioner of New York, who destroyed public records to conceal his trickery, is generally satisfactory. He started out as a vicious republican wolf clothed in meek democratic sheep's clothing. He retires for a season as a common breed yellow dog, with nobody to own him.

Ottawa county democrats are thoroughly in earnest in the advocacy of Hon. Charles Roose for congress. Mr. Roose has been a faithful worker in the party a great many years, and is popular and deserving. Little Ottawa never fails to respond nobly when large democratic majorities are needed, and here is opportunity to show appreciation by honoring one of its representative citizens. The Roose boom has quite a start.

That little dried up relic of former bombast, Mahone, of Virginia, is resurrected for a time in Old Virginia. He is still boss of the republican machine and is conducting a still hunt, hoping to catch the democrats napping, and capture the electoral vote. In order to keep the democrats quiet he advises no republican nominations for congress in the state. The democrats are fully alive to the importance of the campaign and will have out their full vote.

For the fourth time in as many weeks the New York Herald prints the picture of Murat Halstead. This display of oddity, which is characteristic of the editorial page of the Herald, is pleasing to the Field Marshal whose bump of vanity is abnormally large. On this particular occasion Mr. Halstead argues on both sides of his picture to prove a white revolt among the democrats of the south, a pleasant theme for this south-hater. He might divert himself a little, though not so comfortably, by admitting a great revolt among the white republicans of the north.

From 1850 to 1860 the country enjoyed the advantages of a low tariff—a tariff for revenue only During that period the wealth of the country increased one hundred and twenty-six per cent. and the capital invested in manufactures increased over ninety per cent. In that proportion a return of the country to a tariff for revenue basis would be of benefit. That's the democratic idea and hope and promise. Strikes for wages were a novelty in those days, and farm mortgages were scarce.

The importance of the Mississippi River as a great thoroughfare of freight from the up country to foreign lands is demonstrated in large degree by the business of the past year. For the year ending August 31 the shipment of wheat at New Orleans was 14,017,124 bushels, 6,921,143 bushels of corn and 661,942 bushels of rye, an aggregate of 7,259,300 the previous year. This increase shows the stimulus of western trade and how it is diverted from rail to water. It will increase from year to year. The revival of river business is one of the good indications of the solidity of western growth.

More people are engaged in the building trades than in any other trade avocation in this country. There is not a farthing of protection in the building trades, yet wages in these branches of labor are from 200 to 400 per cent. higher than in the protected countries of Europe, and 100 per cent. higher than in free trade England. Will some republican jawsmith of republican faith explain this situation?

That brace of slick politicians, Brailey and Touvelle, of Fulton, are persuading their home people to almost believe they had nothing to do with the break from Brigham in the republican congressional convention. Don't believe them. They are constitutional dissemblers. They were sharp enough to hide their heads, like the ostrich in the sand, but the rest of their political bodies was very visible to the naked eye. From way back Brailey and Touvelle have had no real, deep down heart sympathy for the big Granger whose ambition has kept other fellows back. From January to December it is safe to watch Brailey and Touvelle in politics. It is necessary to do so.

REPUBLICAN FEAR IN OHIO.

The party of hate is distressed in Ohio. The managers who thought they had a cinch on the situation have fooled away their day in court too long. They wake up to find Ohio in danger and orders are issued to McKinley and other spouters to come home and save Ohio. Well may they be scared about this state. The democrats are not making a hurrah campaign because it is not necessary. The people are quietly rousing themselves to revolt against republican domination. The high taxers and the bayonet rule advocates are in danger. There will be a mighty battle of ballots in Ohio in November. People have determined without bass drum argument how they will vote, and it is more than probable that even the Buckeye electoral vote is in danger for the republicans. The slump is contagious and is becoming epidemic. So slumped Maine, so may many other old republican states slump.

REPUBLICAN HARMONY.

It requires more than newspaper say so to make the republican party in Lucas county harmonious. Why should there be harmony after the disappointments of the congressional convention? Men were weak, indeed, did they not keenly feel the insults and jibes of the winner in that race. What Jim Ashley, jr., does and says closely reflects the father's thoughts. The two plan together and execute together. The friends of Griffin and Hamilton would be more than human to forget and forgive in one campaign the insults of the past ten days. Mr. Griffin may be placated; he is a very loyal republican, but in Ashley's success he finds his own political grave. He has been a leader of resource, of brain and money six years. He is the recognized leader of his party in legislative councils. He is considered big enough man to fill any office within the gift of his party. As a special compliment to his ability and service, the Ninth district was made as a Griffin certainty. It was generally understood that he would be nominated, unless, perhaps, the party should divide preferences with that other true leader, Kent Hamilton. An outsider, an interloper, was not considered in the race. So ugly in opposition was the interloper that Mr. Griffin was completely turned down and the man of several parties, the flopper for office, the turncoat, the Ashley was nominated and Griffin was humiliatingly defeated.

Perhaps such demonstrations of loyalty to leaders are provocative of harmony. 'Twould take something radical to provoke response of any kind, other than feelings of resentment, in most men. And to make the situation more disagreeable for Mr. Griffin, and for Mr. Hamilton, the organ of Ashley says the candidate represents everything of republican principle, of advanced ideas of the party, and that he is the embodiment of republican principles, and the only man who can unify and harmonize the party. In Ashley's success Griffin's sun forever sets. In Ashley's success Hamilton goes to lasting defeat. Such is the ungratefulness of republican politics, yet we are told this demonstrative slugging of Hamilton and Griffin is productive of harmony. Perhaps we shall understand the situation better six weeks hence.

In sober truth there is no harmony in the republican party, and there will be none this campaign. Gov. Ashley's money bought his nomination. The same influence is depended upon to harmonize the discordant republican elements. There is where the candidate will fail. He will spend money lavishly but it will do him no good. He was a beaten candidate the day he was nominated and he is in worse condition to-day. He will run two thousand behind his ticket in Lucas county. Whoever the democrats nominate will be elected. Mr. Ashley might as well hang his harp on a willow tree. He will never more play it in Washington.

THAT CIRCUIT JUDGESHIP.

To the Editor—Kindly permit me to state in your columns that the reference to me on the above subject in last evening's Blade is a deliberate lie. Prevarication or falsehood is too mild a name for it.

PAN PRESBYTERIANS.

Proceedings of the Convention in Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—At yesterday's connoon session of the Pan Presbyterian council, presided over by Rev. Mr. Darling, of Auburn, N. Y., the protestant reformation was further considered.

Rev. Prof. Baird, of New York, dealt with their civil and political institution. At the night session the subject was ably presented by Rev. Van Horne, J. Mours Gil Gibson, D. D., London, Eng.; Rev. Everett Van Slyck, Catskill, N. Y., and Rev. E. R. Eschbach, D. D., Frederick City, Md.

The session will be continued to-morrow.

MRS. HARRISON.

There Is no Reported Change in Her Condition.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Harrison passed what may be termed a favorable night—that is to say no alarming symptoms of any kind manifested themselves. She slept but little, however, and this morning is reported by the attending physician as about in the same condition as she has been for the past week. Her nervous prostration is quite marked this morning. The difficulty of assimilating food continues. She has been able to take only a little liquid nourishment to-day.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 23.—Albert Shissler, a well known young Bohemian resident of the city, was arrested early this morning charged with having brutally assaulted Nellie Forster. The affray occurred at the girl's home, 560 River street. It is alleged that Shissler went there and after some words with the girl picked up a cuspidor and struck her over the head, probably fatally injuring her.

A CHANGE OF SYSTEM.

New Method of Classifying Lake Tonnage.

Convention Called for Detroit Next Week.

Vessel Passages Through the Rivers—Coal Rates—General Marine Mention.

Cleveland, Sept. 23.—Insurance companies engaged in business on the great lakes have been invited to send representatives to a conference to be held at Detroit next Wednesday, under the auspices of the United States Standard Steamship Owners', Builders' and Underwriters' Association, Limited, for the purpose of discussing the merits and introduction on the lakes of the above named association's system of inspection and classification of vessels.

So much dissatisfaction has been expressed with the system of valuation and classification of the lake tonnage by the underwriters' committee and the publication thereof that for a time last winter it appeared doubtful if there would be any issue of the season of 1892 of the Inland Lloyds' vessel Register.

The above announcement seems to portend that an entirely new system on the lakes will be adopted. The Bureau Veritas of France, which only a few weeks since established a lake department which it placed in charge of a manager, with headquarters at Chicago, is an organization framed for compiling insurance ratings somewhat after the manner of the London Lloyds; such also is the American Shipmasters' association, and it is likely that there will be a scramble among these various bureaus, each of which has his own peculiar rules for classification.

There has been an impression among vessel owners of late years that while the Inland Lloyds was sufficient for the needs of the lake marine in its infancy, the present demands some more comprehensive and better defined system of wider adaptability to the insurance business of the lakes. Every maritime nation has its own special rules for inspection and classification, but there are three bureaus recognized the world over as almost infallible judges of a ship's worthiness. These are the London Lloyds, the Bureau Veritas (France), and the American Shipmasters' association, who publish the "Record of American and Foreign Shipping." It is no uncommon thing to find vessels rated in all three of the books issued.

It is probable that at the Detroit meeting it will be resolved to abandon the annual lake insurance tariff, and to follow the practice on the seaboard of treating each risk separately. The new system of classification would allow of all risks on vessels being placed during the winter, and it would not be necessary to wait until the issue of a new classification book which never appears until spring.

In Imminent Danger.

Marshfield, Ore., Sept. 23.—Captain O'Brien and his watchmen are on board the wrecked whaleback steamer Wetmore, and it is feared she will go to pieces and the men will perish. A life-saving crew attempted to shoot a life line to them, but failed. A heavy swell is breaking over the wrecked steamer, and it is thought she cannot withstand its force much longer.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Grain shippers wanting few boats to-day, but vesselmen predicted that rates would be maintained, as they had orders to send surplus tonnage for ore, rather than break grain rates.

Duluth.

Duluth, Sept. 23.—Movement of wheat is very heavy, 314,000 bus. clearing from here last night. Rates are firm at 3 1-4 cens to Buffalo.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, Sept. 23.—Duluth coal freights show weakness to-day and it is reported that one vessel was chartered at 35 cents. All other rates are firm. Mixtec was placed for Milwaukee at 55 cents, and the Toltec loads salt for for Milwaukee at 75.

The schooner Unadilla was released from the reef in Niagara river this morning. She was lightered with a fuel scow, the wheat being placed in ton buckets. The boat is apparently uninjured.

CHINESE ADVICES.

London, Sept. 23.—A dispatch to the Times from Shanghai says that an innocent person having been put to death by the Chinese authorities on the charge of having been the leader in the Tekhua riot of last year, the people became so provoked that another serious riot broke out.

The Yellow river has again overflowed its banks and caused much devastation, 12 towns being inundated.

REJECTED.

Alexandria, Egypt, Sept. 23.—The international quarantine board has rejected the Turkish propositions imposing quarantine in favor of a system of medical inspection of vessels from Mediterranean ports of Europe.

AT QUARANTINE.

Many Steamers Still Under the Doctor's Control.

Quarantine, Sept. 23.—At 9 o'clock this morning the following steamers were anchored at upper quarantine: Rugia, Normannia, Moravia, Suevia, Hermann, Adriatic, Heligoland, Germanic and State of Nevada.

In Gravesend bay is the Wyoming, and in the lower bay the Bohemia and Scandia.

The Germanic arrived from Liverpool early this morning bringing 213 saloon passengers, among whom were Dr. Parkhurst, Howland Pell, George Stanley Fiske and Rev. E. Walpole Warren. The steamer will probably leave quarantine this afternoon.

PRETTY KETTLE OF FISH.

Republican Police Officials Having a Tilt

With Each Other—A Case of "I Tickle You and You Tickle Me"—Next Spring's Nominations Playing a Part in the Mess.

There seems to be a Kilkenny cat fight among the members of the police board. Mayor Emmick is pulling one way, Doville is pulling another, and they have got Commissioner Waring between them. In the meantime Commissioners Stager and Potter are saying nothing and sawing wood.

Mayor Emmick allows himself to be interviewed one day and then denies it the next morning. To-day he denied the sensational interview published in the morning paper. "I didn't tell the reporter for the Commercial any such thing," he said. "All I told him was that if credit for closing the gambling places belonged to anyone it belonged to Chief Raitz. That he was the chief of police; that I did all in my power to get him where he is now, and whatever reflected credit on him would likewise reflect credit on me.

"I also told the reporter that I intended to instruct the chief of police to close the pool room on Madison street if it took every man on the force to do it. I did not say that I was entitled to some credit for the raid on the gamblers. That's all nonsense."

Chief Raitz says that some people at the police station have been talking too much. "My plans have been upset two or three times," said he, "and there has got to be a new deal. I didn't read the Emmick interview in the morning paper. I glanced at the headlines and then threw the paper down. I don't want any credit for closing up the gambling rooms. Mayor Emmick is entitled to whatever credit there is in it."

Judge Sala said he didn't care how much people kicked about his preparing and reading the anti-gambling proclamation Wednesday night.

All of which goes to show that there are lively times ahead among the republican officials. Emmick is figuring for a renomination in the spring; Waring wants the nomination himself; Judge Sala wants to be renominated; Raitz wants to stay where he is, and Doville is spoiling the plans of all of them.

THE WABASH TERMINUS

At This Point To Be Vastly Improved.

Steps Taken With This End in View at the New York Meeting.

Col. S. C. Reynolds returned yesterday from New York, where he has been in attendance at the annual meeting of the directors of the Wabash Railroad company.

The dropping of Joy of Detroit means much for Toledo. Joy, ever since he has been on the directory, has successfully attempted to divert traffic over the Wabash via Detroit.

The Wabash people see, however, that Toledo is not only the most suitable but the best eastern terminus of the line, and propose making some great improvements at this point.

The matter is in the hands of a special committee and the chief engineer, and operations will begin as soon as a report is submitted.

No outlined policy has been laid down, but passenger and freight facilities will be greatly enlarged.

Col. Reynolds was asked by a Bee this morning as to the truth of the report, and he said:

"Well, not much can be said just now. It has been decided, however, to expend a large sum of money at this end of the line, but just in what direction I am not prepared to say, and will not for some time."

It is understood that all the Wabash property here will be improved and that its elevator facilities will receive special attention.

TWO STEAMSHIPS

To Be Added to the Lake Erie Transportation Fleet.

President Reynolds Says They Will Be of Steel and the Latest Design.

The Lake Erie Transportation company, of which Col. S. C. Reynolds is president and A. W. Colton, manager, has arranged for the construction of two new steamships.

"Any truth in the report that your company proposes securing two new boats?" Col. Reynolds was asked this morning.

"I guess it is true. Who told you?"

The reporter parried the question and asked:

"Will they be built expressly for the company?"

"We have decided," he said, "to have built for us two vessels that will be in every respect the counterpart of the S. C. Reynolds. That is all I can tell you now."

The Reynolds, it may be said, is one of the finest steamships on the lakes.

The contract for the construction of the boats have not yet been awarded, but it is understood that they will be built at the Craig shipyard.

COPYRIGHT.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 23.—A dispatch from the British colonial secretary states that the imperial authorities confirm the position taken by the Canadian government in refusing, under clause 4 of the act of 1875, to admit citizens of the United States to the same privileges as Canadians in respect to domestic copyright.

THE GERRA ARRIVES.

Baltimore, Sept. 23.—The anxiously looked for steamer Gerra from Bremen with 1,100 immigrants for Baltimore arrived at Cape Henry this morning and reported all well on board. She will be inspected by quarantine officials before proceeding up the bay.

THE KAISER REPORTED.

London, Sept. 23.—The steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II, which left New York September 14 for Bremen has arrived at Southampton.

THE CLOVER LEAF

To Buy or Build Another Steamship.

An Offer Tendered for the G. G. Hadley But Refused—Doing a Great Business.

There is evidently a boom on in vessel property at this point, and the probability is that Shipbuilder Craig will have all he can do the coming winter.

The Clover Leaf boats have been unable to do the business the company's line brings to Toledo, and they are redhot to buy or lease a steamship right away.

The company is after the G. G. Hadley, at least for the balance of the season, but her owners refuse to take her off the present route, where she is making more money than any vessel on the lakes.

The Clover Leaf will have a new boat which they will either buy or build for next season. The business is assuming great proportions.

WHEEL RACE.

Vienna, Sept. 23.—Bicyclists from all nations have been invited to compete in the long distance race between Vienna and Trieste via Grasse. The route is 310 miles long. The race will take place at the same time as that of the Berlin-Vienna officers' race. Originally it was intended that the wheelmen should take the Berlin-Vienna route but the officers objected.

HELD FOR TRIAL.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—M. C. Curtis, assistant cashier of the American National bank of Kansas City, who was arrested in this city last night on the charge of having embezzled $3,000 from the bank, was examined before U. S. Commissioner Hoyne this morning and held in $10,000 bonds. He will be taken to Kansas City this afternoon.

WAR AGAINST TAXES.

Exciting News Comes From Porto Rico.

The Imposition of the New Tariff Has Caused the People to Rebel.

Havana, Sept. 23.—News brought here from Porto Rico recently by a mail steamer is not of a satisfactory nature. It appears that the imposition of the new tariffs was received in that island with far greater disgust than was manifested here.

As in Cuba the merchants of Porto Rico closed their establishments as a protest against the new burdens placed upon them, but the movement was not confined to the capital, but extended to all the other towns of the island.

The people also indulged in noisy demonstrations and a number of collisions occurred between them and the armed forces.

Senor Vega Verdugo, the manager of the treasury, who returned to Porto Rico from Spain recently, made an attempt to land in order to quell the disturbances, but the dense crowd which occupied the wharves in the vicinity of the landing place assumed such an aggressive attitude when they learned of his intention that he was compelled to remain on the steamer in order to avoid personal injury at the hands of the infuriated people.

This manifestation against Senor Verdugo is due to the fact that the inhabitants of Porto Rico consider him to be the real author of the obnoxious tariffs. Despite the menaces of those who opposed his landing Senor Verdugo expressed his determination of going ashore, but the governor-general, fearing that serious trouble would result, ordered him to proceed to Havana.

No sooner had the steamer on which Senor Verdugo was a passenger entered the harbor of San Juan than she was surrounded by numerous small boats, whose occupants with threatening gestures cried furiously, "Muera (die) Verdugo," "Muera, Romero Robledo." Senor Robledo is the Spanish minister of customs.

FRENCH CELEBRATION.

The City of Paris Was Ablaze With Glory.

London, Sept. 23.—A dispatch to the Times from Paris, commenting upon the fetes in honor of the proclamation of the first French republic, says:

"While the people of the lower strata entered fully into the festivities reactionaries and the bourgeoise sulked throughout. On the Chaps Elysees flags were only seen here and there, at the residence of the richest Jewish bankers, whom anti-semetism has driven into the arms of the republic and who participated in the fetes in order to enjoy the benefits of her protection.

"But what gave the festival its peculiar character was, above all, the ceremony at the pantheon and M. Floquet's speech, to which I draw the attention of those interested in the progress of France and for which M. Floquet on leaving the pantheon was greeted with unanimous acclaims, seeming as he did to personify the ceremony in the eyes of the crowd.

"To-night it is litterally true to say that the stars paled behind the splendor of the illumination. All the monuments of famous men are lighted up and the top of the Vendome, each story of the louvre, stages, and towers of the trocador, the dome of the opera, the Eiffel tower and all the government buildings are ablaze."

Splendid achievements await those who bravely, honestly and stubbornly fight in the people's cause.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

LATE MARKETS.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 475,371 bu and at five other western points 792,244 bu; total 1,267,615 bu. On the corresponding Friday in 1891 the receipts at same points were 1,065,590 bu, including 626,812 bu of northwest wheat, leaving 438,778 bu as the movement from the other five points, compared with 792,244 bu to-day.

Export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat 86,422 bu and flour to a total of 266,000 bu. English markets are firmer and Liverpool higher for wheat; steady for corn.

Yesterday' operations in wheat at Chicago inspired hopes in the minds of dealers everywhere that it was the commencement of a campaign on the part of large holders to carry prices up to about 80c. To-day "the promise is broken to the hope," and there are evidences that some strong holders have unloaded a part of their stocks. Anyhow prices are lower. English markets did not reflect the advance on this side, and other influences, including the weather, were bearish if anything.

Corn has fluctuated, but closes lower. The temperature has risen, and in conflict with the signal service predictions, we predict warm graining weather for late corn.

London and Liverpool wheat futures are reported as closing higher, and we hope so.

In New York December wheat closed at 82 1-2c, a loss of 1-2c. October oats 37 1-4c, a loss of 1-8c.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 73 3-4c, and December at 73 3-8c, a loss of 3-4c on each. September corn at 45 1-4, a loss of 1-8c. October at 45 1-2c, a loss of 1-4c. October oats at 33c, a loss of 1-4c.

In Toledo there has been quite an increase in the trading in wheat for future delivery, although yesterday's closing prices have not been maintained, there has been a good demand which at the same time was freely met. Opening trades were at a decline of about 1-2c, which was increased at the close to 3-4c on September and October, 1c on December and 3-4c on May. On the call September sold at 75 1-8 to 75; May at 83 3-8 to 83 1-4. On the regular board September sold at 75 to 75 1-2 and closed at 74 3-4; October sold at 75 1-2 to 75 3-4 and closed at 75c; December sold at 78 to 78 3-8c, and closed at 77 7-8c; May at 83 1-4 to 83 1-2c, and closed at 83c; cash wheat was also in fair request at lower prices; No. 2 soft at 75 to 75 1-4c, and at close the price was 74 3-4c, a loss of 3-4c; No. 2 soft, 68 1-4 to 68 1-2c, and in L. S. at 70 1-4c; No. 4 soft at 60c; rejected No. 1 at 64 to 67 1-2c; No. 2 at 50 to 51c; No. 2 hard at 70c; red and white at 75c L. S.

Corn—No. 2 about 47; No. 3 46 1-2c.

Oats—No. 3 white at 35c.

Rye—Rejected at 42c.

Cloverseed again advanced sharply with quite an active demand and considerable trading. On the call November sold at $6.25. After the call prime for cash at $6.35. October at $6.25 to $6.40, November at $6.50 and higher, to buy at close. December at $6.45@6.55, January at $6.65.

CHAPTER ON WHEAT

From the Grain Circular Issued by C. A. King & Co.

The Bee takes the following information from yesterday's daily grain circular issued by C. A. King & Co., of this city:

December wheat here is low. It is much lower than most recent years and as low as in 1887, when it improved from the middle of September to December. It is relatively cheaper than Chicago, where spring wheat is deliverable on contracts, and New York, where the standard is lower and hard spring wheat deliverable. The quality here is as good as any market in the country and storage charges cheaper.

Wheat is not only low, but some-think cheap. There has been no fresh impetus to stimulate speculation but some good buying, based mostly on the low price and the fact that everything thus far has tended to decrease prices. Winter wheat farmers selling so much more freely than expected; the cholera scare; large stocks in the United Kingdom and rapid increase in our visible supply have all made the bulls timid.

There is also a slight possibility of the spring wheat farmers surprising the trade by rushing in their poor wheat as the winter wheat farmers did, but winter wheat will soon dwindle and we hope the cholera cloud will be dispelled. Increased speculation is necessary to cause any decided improvement in the near future. We hope this will come but fear there will be only scalping bulges until the spring wheat movement is provided for.

The price of December wheat here compares as follows:

	1892.	1891.	1890.	1889
Aug. 1	83	93	96	82
Sept. 1	79	1.04	1.04	82
Oct. 1	..	1.01	1.00	84
Nov. 1	..	99	1.03	82
Dec. 1	..	95	95	82
	1888.	1887.	1886.	1885
Aug. 1	90	78	..	..
Sept. 1	89	79	85	89
Oct. 1	1.05	78	79	95
Nov. 1	1.12	78	79	95
Dec. 1	1.01	82	80	93

Flour Mills.—The milling capacity here has been increasing very fast the past few years. It is the ideal place for winter wheat millers. Supplies are cheap, easily secured and protected by futures and with the advantage of both rail and water transportation. Only eight cities in the United States have a larger capacity and ours will increase as rapidly as any. It helps to make this a desirable market for our interior grain shippers.

AN ENJOYABLE MUSICALE

And Reception Given by Miss Rose Clouse.

When it is announced that Miss Rose Clouse is to entertain, the fortunate guests await with pleasant anticipations the event. Miss Clouse gave a highly enjoyable musicale at Friendship hall last evening, followed by a reception, given in honor of Miss Berwn. To the regret of those present it was announced that Miss Berwn had concluded not to render her selections, as she could not do herself justice on other than a grand piano, which it was impossible to place in the hall.

The following program was rendered—each and every number being highly appreciated:

Chant du soir, Mazurka, Emil Sauret; Wieniawski—Mr. Brand.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Voit, Reilly, Wakeman and Otto, were appointed to investigate the street car trouble.

One new delegate, John Gould, was admitted from the Metal polishers' union.

A boycott was reported on the Jenny Electric Motor company, of Indianapolis.

The meeting adjourned at an early hour.

The Stationary engineers meet to-morrow night.

THE GAS PUMPS

To Be Located at Van Buren—Meeting Yesterday.

As stated in the Bee yesterday the gas trustees awarded the contracts for the pumping apparatus to the Hall Steam Pump company, of Pittsburg.

The contract calls for a completion of the work in eight weeks, and includes building and everything necessary to complete a full pumping plant.

A committee goes to the field to-day with the view of locating the site for the station. It will undoubtedly be at or near the trestle at Van Buren, as at that point a plentiful supply of water can be secured and water is a prime necessity.

ONLY A MULE.

Only a mule in the harness,
 Fallen, because the load
Was heavier than his frame could draw
 Over the slippery road.

Only a mule, and he lay there
 Suffering, helpless, forlorn,
With all the throbbing, sensitive nerves
 Of a human princely born.

Yes, he lay there, an emblem of patience,
 Dying, in spite of the lash,
Dying, in spite of a driver's rage,
 Curses and words so rash.

He lay there, watched by Our Father,
 Smitten in mercy at last;
Free from a cruel master,
 Dying,—dead,—and at rest.

Better to be a humble mule,
 Suffering, patient, and kind,
Than the human brute who hath slain him,
 The man with the loftier (?) mind.

In the day of "the just made perfect,"
 Ah, laugh not a brute to scorn,
Better to be a sinless mule,
 Than a beast in human form.

STRATEGY.

"There's no other way, Mary. I shall have to go!"

He said the words as if pronouncing his own doom. There was silence between the two who loved; if the thing was inevitable there was nothing to be said, only endurance was possible.

She had seen him march away to the war, smiling a farewell to hide an aching heart, in those first days of the country's danger.

He had done his duty faithfully—fulfilled his two years' service—and returned, as they both hoped, to the enjoyment of the imperiled happiness. He had just told her he should have to go again. It was hard to believe—hard to bear!

And yet there seemed no other way. The two years of his absence had been two years of disaster to his parents. Mildew and weevil, for two successive years, made their great wheat field a desolation. The long rains of early summer spoiled the rich, low-lying meadows; and the fire spread over the hill-side, covered with rare timbers, and swept away their fences.

And then money was needed to rebuild and restock, to purchase the necessaries of life, and the farm was mortgaged for the purpose of raising these needful funds. And in this condition Horace Harding found home matters at the expiration of his term of service.

He would lend to Mr. Harding only on the security of his farm, and his terms were accepted.

And now the time was come for payment; and old Simon demanded the fulfilment of his bond.

Simon was a great coward. As far as metals were concerned, he preferred gold to lead or steel, and, though rations and free living at the expense of the government tempted him not a little, he still thought he could make money enough at home to overbalance the expense. And, as the time approached, his fears so increased that he reluctantly decided to procure a substitute. And this was how Horace Harding got personally complicated in the affair.

Old Simon threatened to foreclose the mortgage. He had a double motive—one now hidden in the background so securely that its existence was never suspected. But he felt that he could bide his time.

His first move was to propose to Horace to become his substitute, and to offer as a consideration the relinquishment of all the claims he held against the elder Harding. And Horace accepted. That very day he had agreed to enter the army as a substitute for Simon Suggs, and had received mortgages, notes and all in return. His father was a free man, but he was bound.

It was very hard. Long ago, before he first enlisted, he and Mary Lord had been lovers. They had waited for his return, and then Horace had no home to which he might bring a wife. And now there must be a further delay.

After he was gone, those he left behind were as peaceful as human beings can be, encumbered with anxiety and sad expectation. Battle after battle, dire and bloody, was fought. Horace was in most of them.

At last the blow fell. A terrible battle had been fought. The wounded and the dead counted by thousands. There were hundreds of prisoners. Horace's own regiment had been more than decimated. The names—long lists of slain—were published, and columns of wounded. His name was not among those. But opposite it was written "Missing."

The months and the years passed away and no tidings came from the lost one.

And then old Simon Suggs appeared once more upon the scene.

He had known the mother of Mary Lord all her life. In her youth he had a sneaking fondness for her, long sacrificed for his passion for gain.

They were very poor now, for Mary had had neither heart nor strength for her accustomed tasks. She had become languid and nerveless, and could not all at once muster the forces of her nature, that had been worsted in her sore conflict with grief and suspense.

It was while she was in this state that Simon Suggs commenced his siege. He was a wise and careful man. In a little time he had her mother all upon his side, and then by degrees he ventured to speak plainly.

Mary did not yield easily. She resisted with all her feeble powers. But she had a great deal to contend with. She loved and respected her mother, the habit of obedience was strong, and so was that of self-sacrifice. But convinced at last that Horace was gone, she resolved to think only of her mother. With a heart numb with despair, she gave her consent to the proposed match.

The wedding morning came. The pale, hopeless bride awaited the coming of the bridegroom, with an apathy more dreadful to behold than the liveliest paroxysms of hate or disgust. Her mother's cruelty was blind and unsensitive. She thought Mary had shown great good sense, and that she was securing for both of them an excellent home. She was pleased, for she was weary of privation and poverty.

And then the bridegroom, looking older and meaner than ever, came, and the party set out for the village church. They entered and the pair stood before the altar, and the service began. * * * Quietly up the aisle came a soldier, worn, faded and not over-clean his clothes. His shadow fell across the kneeling pair. The bride had risen. Her wan face was alive with joy and color, as it turned toward the audience; the next it was hidden on the shoulder of that faded coat of blue. Horace had returned.

"The bullet you hired did not kill me, you see," he shouted after Simon Suggs, stealing out of the church. "The war is over, and I shall enjoy my own again."

There was no wedding that day, but there was one on the next. It was but natural to expect that result since the dead was alive and the "missing" had been found.—New York News.

COUNCIL COMMITTEES

Meet and Pass Upon Much New Legislation.

Controversy Over Asphalt Contracts—Sewers and Sidewalks Approved—Bridge Talk and Other Matters.

The council committees on streets and sewers held very lively sessions last evening, and to a man up a tree it looks as though some of the councilmen who have been indicted for soliciting bribes had control of these committees.

The significant feature of the street committee's session was the action finally taken in reference to the bids for the paving of Putnam, Fulton and Bancroft streets. Engineer Miller submitted the bids recently made for the improvement of the above streets. W. R. Warren was the lowest bidder for the asphalting of Putnam street, and the contract was awarded to him.

H. P. Streicher was the lowest bidder for the asphalting of Fulton street, but several property owners appeared before the committee and asked that all bids for this improvement be rejected on the ground that they were too high.

Mr. Tanner made a motion that the contract be awarded to the lowest bidder, but Mr. Osborne moved to amend the motion by rejecting all the bids and re-advertising. The amendment was carried and all the bids rejected.

The lowest bidder for the paving of Bancroft street with fire brick was Thos. McKinney, but a petition was presented from a majority of the abutting property owners asking for asphalt and the bids were rejected.

Afterwards Mr. Leroux moved that the rejection of the Fulton street bids be reconsidered and the matter referred back to the committee. Mr. Gill moved to amend by awarding the contract to the lowest bidder.

By this time several members of the committee had left the room. Mr. Osborne said it was an outrage to spring any such snap game at that time, and he got up from the table and refused to act with the committee. A motion was then carried to reconsider the matter and lay it over for one week.

After this Mr. Gill moved to reconsider the rejection of the bids for the Bancroft street improvement. The motion was carried and the matter laid over for one week.

Ordinances and resolutions were adopted by the committee as follows: Ordinance to improve Eagle lane, Fulton street to Magnolia street; ordinance to open and extend Colburn street, from Broadway to the M. & E. canal, costs to be taxed on abutting property owners; to improve Bancroft street, Lagrange to Elm, instructing the engineer to grade the approaches at the corner of Union street and Woodruff avenue, and the State and John street approaches at Union street; to turnpike South street, from Park street to the city limits; to turnpike Baker street, Robinson street to Second street; to improve alley between Oak street and the northwesterly line of Clark street; to improve Charles street in Ironville; rescinding a resolution to improve Oak street from St. Clair to Nineteenth street.

A remonstrance was received against the improvement of Mott avenue between Licking street and East Broadway. A resolution to improve the alley between Summit and St. Clair streets, from Madison to Cherry streets, was laid on the table for two weeks.

Resolutions for the construction of a sewer in, and the paving of, Sixteenth street were rescinded, and a resolution to rescind the Spielbusch avenue improvement resolution was laid on the table.

Turnpiking and other contracts were awarded as follows: Leonard, Nevada, and Platt streets, John T. Miller; Woodruff avenue, Thos. McKinney; improvement of alley between Washington and Bartlett streets, W. R. Warren; paving of McDonald street, James Horan.

Ordinances to clean Superior street, from Cherry to Washington; Summit street, from Elm to Perry; St. Clair street, from Cherry to the Lake Shore bridge; Eleventh street, from Illinois to Oak; Broadway, from Ottawa to the Wabash crossing, and Monroe street, from Water to Ontario were laid on the table.

There was considerable discussion over a resolution to grade Oak street, from St. Clair to Thirteenth. Several property owners objected and the resolution was allowed to lie on the table.

Legislation for More Sewers.

The committee on sewers had a long session and transacted considerable business. The same element that ruled the committee on streets predominated in this committee. The following ordinances and resolutions were adopted:

For a sewer in the alley between Forrer and Vance streets, from Ewing street. Resolution for sewer in Water street, from Ash to Buffalo street. Ordinance for sewer in Fitchland avenue, Sylvan avenue, alley between Glenwood avenue and Bancroft street, and alley southeast of Smead avenue, from Detroit avenue to a point ten feet north of the north line of Elmwood avenue. Ordinance for sewer in alley between Grand and Fitchland avenues, and the alley southeast of Smead avenue, from the sewer in Sylvan avenue to a point near the north line of Fitchland avenue. Ordinance for a sewer in the alley north of Lafayette street, from sewer No. 112 in Ewing street to a point ten feet east of the east line of Hawley street. Resolution for brick sewer in center line of Smead avenue, from sewer No. 399 in Bancroft street to Monroe street; for sewer in Fourth street, Cherry street to Starr avenue; for sewer in Columbia street, Maumee river to Summit street; for sewer in alley between Dorr and Hicks street; for sewer in Vance street from Fifteenth street to the canal bed; for sewer in alley between Washington and Hicks street, Spring Grove avenue to Nevada street; for sewer in alley between South and Colburn streets, from Maumee avenue to Bank street; for a sewer between Washington and Hicks street, from Calkin street to Forest avenue.

A resolution was also adopted authorizing the interested property owners to build a sewer in the alley between Summit and Erie streets.

All bids for a sewer in Woodville street, from Nevada street to Navarre avenue, were rejected on a technicality, and another resolution, properly framed, adopted for the same sewer.

Mr. Beaumont, who is interested in a sewer in Vinton street, appeared before the committee and said he had been assessed $520 for sewer No. 412. He intimated that lumber had been charged for which was not used, and said that he had not been allowed to look at the records. The committee could afford him no relief and he left the room a sadder but no wiser man.

Sewer contracts were awarded as follows: Sewer 431, G. H. Bodette, $1,277; sewer 430, F. Gates, $1,397.40; sewer 429, F. E. Cole, $1,313.60; sewer 428, J. H. Doyle, $2,427.04; sewer 439, Thomas Kelley, $2,677.54; sewer 435, Thomas Kelley, $2,470.44; sewer 433, J. Degnan, $2,552.20; sewer 434, G. H. Bodette, $1,977.30; sewer 437, F. E. Cole, $2,078.50; sewer 436, J. Horan, $354.50; sewer 438, W. T. Ryan, $2,506.55; sewer 432, Leith Bro., $1,570.70; sewer 440, Neil Huston, $1,702.44.

Printing Committee.

After the committee on sewers adjourned the printing committee met. Mr. Neuendorf, the chairman, said the only business to be transacted was the awarding of a contract for the city printing for the ensuing year.

Without looking at the bids Mr. Tanner moved that all of them be rejected. The motion was carried and the committee adjourned, after having been in session about one minute.

Bridge Committee.

The condition of the Field avenue bridge was discussed by the committee on bridges. Engineer Miller said the bridge had been condemned, barricaded at both ends, and the street railway and steam railway companies notified of its unsafe condition.

Mr. Manchester said that he had received notice that President Newell, of the railroad company, would be in Toledo this afternoon to meet the committee and discuss plans for a new bridge or for repairs to the present structure.

Mr. Huberich said that people living in its vicinity claimed that the Maumee avenue bridge was too high.

Harbor Master O'Connor said the planking on the Cherry street bridge was in bad shape, and he was instructed to put new four-inch planking theron.

New Sidewalks.

The committee on sidewalks adopted resolutions for new sidewalks on the following streets and avenues: Dix, from Crittenden avenue to Colburn street; Raymer, from Starr avenue to French street; Cherry, from Canton avenue to Bancroft street; French, from White street to lot S. Raymer's addition; Twenty-first, from Monroe street to the alley between Madison and Jefferson streets; Front, from Oak street to Utah street; Beacon, from Union street to Vermont avenue; Cherry, from Starr avenue to Front street; Eleventh, in front of lot 604, Port Lawrence; Washington, from St. Clair to Superior; Fassett, from Oak street to Utah street; Franklin, from Tracy street to Owens street; Nineteenth, from Washington street to Madison street; Lafayette, from Michigan street to Division street; Fifth, from Starr avenue to French street; Hawley, from Brewster street to Lake Shore railway; Magnolia, from Summit street to Superior street; Stocking avenue, from Colburn street to Congress street; Monroe street, from Bancroft street to the city line; Humboldt, from City Park avenue to Elizabeth street.

MRS. MAYBRICK.

An Appeal From American Women.

Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Blaine Head the Long List of Petitioners.

New York, Sept. 23.—A dispatch from London says: Since the ascension to office of the new home secretary he has received numerous petitions in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick, but the most important is the following document signed by women in America, and forwarded a few days since to the queen.

Among the signatories are Caroline Scott Harrison, President Harrison's wife; Harriet Stanwood Blaine, Anna M. Foster and Ellen R. Rush. The document is as follows:

"Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.—To Her Majesty, the Queen—Madam:

"The four and fifty years of your illustrious reign have established you in the love and respect of the citizens of this republic; confiding in the power of your majesty and the power of your goodness, we pray your grace on behalf of our young countrywoman, Florence Maybrick, a widow, a mother, fatherless, motherless, brotherless, wearing out in prison a life sentence of penal servitude upon the charge of murdering her husband by arsenical poisoning.

"The beneficent law of England, which has become so largely the basis of personal rights in our own country, requires that the proof of guilt should remove every reasonable doubt, and it is understood here that the secretary of state for the home department of the British government, upon a review of the evidence in Mrs. Maybrick's case, concluded that there was a reasonable doubt whether Mr. Maybrick died of arsenical poisoning and upon this ground commuted her sentence to imprisonment for life.

"There was, it is understood, an entire absence of evidence that Mrs. Maybrick administered or attempted to administer arsenic to her husband with intent to kill; while evidence that Mr. Maybrick had been in the habit of taking arsenic as a medicine was present in the case. In view of all the facts we earnestly, respectfully and trustfully entreat of your most gracious majesty a pardon and release for Mrs. Maybrick."

DRIVEN FROM THE DECK.

The Crew of a Fishing Boat Scared by a Sea Serpent.

London, Sept. 23.—A sea serpent has put in an appearance a few miles off the coast of Aberdeenshire. The crew of the fishing boat Harbinger asserts that while lying at anchor yesterday an extraordinary looking monster, with a neck like a giraffe, a long black mane of a fibrous nature, somewhat resembling split whalebone, and a skin spotted like a fancy oilcloth, suddenly hove its awful bulk out of the water quite close to the boat and placing one of its gigantic paws or flippers upon the prow and the other near the stern lifted its head high in the air and glared down upon the terrified crew.

The head somewhat resembled that of an alligator, but was remarkable for its extremely small size and was apparently without teeth. The body was shaped somewhat like a turtle and terminated in a long, powerful tail, edged with great spines.

The monster seemed to be harmless, but its weight caused the boat to careen more than three feet. The crew was paralyzed with terror and dropped into the hold, all but one, more courageous than the rest, who climbed up the mast.

After satisfying his curiosity, the enormous creature returned to his native element, having paid a visit to the upper air of about a quarter of an hour, thus giving the man on the mast ample time and opportunity to inspect him.

SLID DOWN A GLACIER.

Bayley Glided 2,000 Feet Down the Snow on Mount Rainier Without a Toboggan.

George B. Bayley, of the Merten Manufacturing company, San Francisco, has been missing for two months, and only recently it was learned that he was in Tacoma, drawing a handsome sum each month as accident insurance for injuries received while descending Mount Rainier after climbing with P. D. Van Trump to the top of the southwest peak of that mountain.

The mountain is known in Tacoma as Mount Tacoma, and in Seattle as Mount Rainier. In July last Bayley invited P. D. Van Trump, who was at Yelm, to attempt the ascent of Rainier, and the trip was at once begun. All their arrangements were made in Tacoma, and the start was made from Van Trump's place at Yelm. The first few miles the traveling was easy, but when the glaciers and ice fields were encountered the two men found it very hard work. Van Trump had been over the same ground before a dozen times, and Bayley had had considerable experience in the same line.

After great difficulty the two men succeeded in reaching the summit. Once there they placed their names under a cairn of stones, and, after enjoying the rarified air for a few minutes, made a start for home.

On the western slope of the mountain are five glaciers, which are rivers of ice and snow with extremely rough surfaces. The crevices are cracks sometimes one or two inches and sometimes several feet wide. Their depths vary from a few feet to thousands. Before the two mountain climbers had gone very far on their way down the mountain, Bayley slipped on the great glacier, and the next moment was speeding down the mountain side. For 2,000 feet he went down like a shot, and then disappeared from the view of Van Trump.

With all possible speed the latter made his way down the glacier, Bayley's course being easily traceable by the fragments of clothing he had left in his downward flight.

About 2,000 feet down Van Trump's course was stopped by a crevice, and then he thought to himself. "There is Bayley's grave." A faint "halloo" brought him to his senses, and peering into the open space he saw his companion about 70 feet below him in a snow bank. Unrolling a rope he had with him, he lowered it down, and, after great exertion, got Bayley to the surface of the glacier again. Once out of the crevice Byley fainted, and it took Van Trump ten minutes to get him around.

With Van Trump guiding and assisting his companion, the descent of the mountain was continued. Then came the second catastrophe. Van Trump went snow blind. Bruised Bayley acted as guide, and blind Van Trump supported the living toboggan as they crept down the mountain, finally reaching the cabin of "Indian Henry," where they stayed while a doctor was sent for.

After a few days' rest with the Indian, the climbers returned to Yelm, and are there yet.

Had Bayley weighed 200 pounds instead of 140, Van Trump would never have pulled him out of the crevice alive. To know George B. Bayley is to be acquainted with that San Francisco creation, a thrifty commercial "Bohemian." His partners say they do not know when Bayley will return.

MASCULINE INCONSISTENCY.

Fastidiousness of the Average Man Vanishes at the Free Lunch Counter.

To the student of human nature the free-lunch counter offers a fruitful field for observation and cogitation.

The average New York, says the Herald of that city, who has money enough to command a fair share of the comforts of life, prides himself on being rather fastidious about his victuals. He insists on cleanliness above all things. He becomes very indignant if at a restaurant a plate is set before him that bears the imprint of dirty fingers. His knife and fork must bear no trace of the service they have done for the guest who last used them. And if he should discover, in any way, that the food set before him was something which had been previously handled and rejected by other patrons of the restaurant—why, he would take a fit right off, and when he recovered he would bring suit against the proprietor, confident in the assurance that any jury which wasn't tampered with would award him heavy damages.

But when he confronts a free-lunch counter in a saloon all this fastidiousness vanishes. He sees dozens of hands pawing over the contents of various dishes which are all supposed to be more or less provocative of ardent thirst, without any sensations of squeamishness becoming apparent in his interior department. He calmly helps himself to a piece of ham or a scrap of cheese and proceeds to consume it without being in the slightest degree disturbed by the reflection that the particular morsel he choose for the gratification of his appetite had been touched by many fingers—some probably greatly in need of washing—before he secured it.

If he uses a fork to help himself to beans or potato salad or a mussel or two it isn't a clean fork that he employs. It is a fork that he employs. It is a fork that he picks out of a jar of dirty water, into which the man who last used it dropped it. That makes not the slightest difference to him, however, in a saloon, although in a restaurant it would justify him in "arising Cain." But when he goes to the bar to get his drink there will be the deuce to pay if he detects the decocter of intoxicants mixing him a cocktail in a glass that is not perfectly clean.

All this, the philosopher would say, tends to show that the average man is more a creature of habit than of reason and that what fastidiousness he manifests is simply based on custom.

SHREWD OLD INDIAN.

He Taught the White Men Punctuality at a Big Price to Themselves.

Matthias Spitlog, chief of the Wyandottes, lives in Kansas, and, being known to possess about $1,000,000 worth of property, is called the wealthiest Indian in America, says Harper's Young People. Although over 70 years of age, and unable to read or write, he is a keen business man. By his shrewdness and ability he has acquired large tracts of land in Kansas and Missouri, houses and lots in Kansas City, and has money invested in a number of paying enterprises.

The white men to whom he gave a $20,000 lesson in punctuality had persuaded him to sell them a certain tract of land for $140,000, and were to pay him the money at 10 o'clock at a bank in Kansas City. On the appointed morning, a few minutes before the hour named, the old Indian entered the bank and took a seat, with his eyes fixed upon a clock. The capitalists had not appeared when the hands of the clock reached the hour. As it began to strike the old Indian rose to his feet, and at the last stroke of the clock he promptly walked out of the building. On the street, less than a block away, he met the men who were to buy his land hurrying toward the bank. They begged him to return with them, but he refused, saying that if they still wished to deal with him he would meet them at 10 o'clock on the following day at the same place.

This time both the white men and the Indian were promptly on hand; but when the former offered old Matthias the price agreed upon for the land he told them that while $140,000 was yesterday's price, today's price was $160,000; and to these terms they were finally compelled to accede.

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.
The Hand Medicine Co.
DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic. There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

SUNK A SCHOONER.

The Sea Serpent Plays a Terrible Trick in Lake Michigan.

The mystery of the collision of the three-masted schooner Cheney Ames with the south pier at this harbor is being cleared up, says a Muskegon (Mich.) dispatch to the Chicago Tribune. It will be remembered, as told in these dispatches, that the boat on entering the harbor suddenly became uncontrollable and was dashed against the sharp corner of the pier and received a rent which shortly afterward sent her to the bottom.

When the crash came Ed Maloney, a seaman, comprehended the situation at a glance, and seizing a piece of tarred canvas sprang overboard, when, with superb prowess and bravery, he succeeded in placing the cloth over the opening, the pressure of the water holding it in place. This almost unexampled and strategic movement kept the Ames afloat until she went down in shallow water several hundred feet up the channel. Maloney was immediately hurled by a heavy sea aft and beneath the vessel. His companion had no fear for his safety, for the tar can swim and dive like the disputed Alaskan seal. He passed entirely beneath the vessel, coming to the surface abaft the stern on the opposite side.

Contrary to all expectations, instead of striking out and swimming ashore, he acted as one stunned or paralyzed, and when he had drifted to the pier he was hauled in more dead than alive. He quaked in his dripping boots and his face was blanched with abject terror. Recovering his breath, or more particularly his wits, he told a marvelous story, yet one in corroboration of other stories and rumors current hereabout. In brief, his story was that in passing beneath the vessel he glanced through the water as a man would through open air, and beheld a sight which froze his blood and dried up his fountains of speech. Lodged between the wheel and rudder of the peculiarly constructed schooner and coiled several times about the rudder was a serpent fully 60 feet in length.

Its jaws, in which gleamed ferocious fangs, were distended, and the gleaming, bead-like eyes of the beast looked earnestly into the eyes of the sailor as he passed. The lower part of the body was yellowish pink and white, while the upper portion of the reptile was glossy black. The wheel had cut a gash in its side from which the blood spurted and discolored the water in the wake of the vessel. Before Maloney had told his story the monster had freed itself from the trap of the rudder and wheel and plunged into the depths of the lake. As soon as the rudder was unobstructed it responded to the efforts of the nonplussed and tugging wheelsman and the disabled schooner was thrown to the north side of the channel, and in a few minutes backward sank.

Referring to this sea monster, Wm. Dixon, superintendent of the water department, said when he saw it about 2 o'clock, or an hour before the wrecking of the vessel, it was floating in toward the harbor in spiral shape, or as a huge, inverted corkscrew. Then it changed its position to a mammoth, yet graceful, interrogation point. Mr. Dixon had reported sighting the serpent before it became entangled with the ill-fated Cheney Ames.

The presence of this mighty reptile, followed so closely by the unusual auroral display, has caused some nervousness on the part of summer tourists at Lake Harbor, and the coast is constantly patrolled in hopes of catching a glimpse of this terror of the lake.

GOOD OLD WHALING DAYS.

As Remembered by an Ancient Mariner of 'Sconset.

A number of fishermen were telling stories of their early days in the quaint little village of Siasconset, says the Fitchburg Sentinel. There were a number of summer visitors in the room, and they seemed to enjoy the yarns which were being spun immensely. Finally an old, dried-up man with a purple wen on his neck and a handful of white chin whiskers, said:

"Talk about the whaling days in Siasconset, why, I can remember when the whales were so thick around here that it was a common thing for them to crawl up the shore like turtles to sun themselves."

"How long ago was that?" asked an anxious bystander.

"About forty years ago," replied the old man, "and in those days the whales had oil in them, too, that was worth talking about. I have seen them tap a whale and by the time the oil was out of him there didn't seem to be skin enough left to cover a base ball. But now they are kinder non-explosive."

"What do you mean by non-explosive?" asked a bystander, as he handed the hoary grandsire of Siasconset a flask with which to warm himself up a bit.

"I mean," replied the Siasconseter as he handed the flask back with a smile, "that the whales used to be so full of oil that if you put a wick in one of them and lit it, it would burn for almost six months."

"We used to burn chunks of whale in the stove, and it made the finest fire you ever saw. We had a whale or part of one hanging up in the back yard, and whenever we wanted to start a fire we would just step out with a hatchet and chop a chunk or two that would fit the stove——"

"Have another drink!" interrupted the man with the flask.

"Don't mind if I do," replied the ancient Siasconseter.

Here he took a good pull, and, handing the flask back, continued in a sad, reflective tone.

"I once knew an old whaler who has been dead many years. His end was very sad."

"How did he die?" asked a bystander.

"Killed by a whale," said the grandsire of Siasconset.

"Out on the water, of course," suggested the stranger.

"No, out in his back yard."

"Hit him with his tail?"

"No," replied the Siasconset romancer. "You see the old man hauled off at the whale with his hatchet——"

"And the whale bit him in half before he could strike?"

"Not much; the whale was dead."

"Then how could he have killed your friend?"

"This way," said the old man deliberately; "he dropped a spark by accident out of his pipe and it fell upon the whale. The whale exploded like a kerosene lamp, and scattered my friend from Siasconset to Tuckahoe. As it was night, the ocean was lighted up for miles, and over at Martha's Vineyard they thought that Nantucket was having its first volcano. I tell you the whales in the old days were——" Here the old Siasconseter looked around to find that all his hearers had slipped softly away.

Berlin, Sept. 23.—According to Mr. Poultney Bigelow, the German emperor's yacht will not be entered in the race for the American cup. Mr. Bigelow states that the emperor assured him that he had no idea of entering the Meteor.

We did not save a piece of goods from the fire. Every piece of goods on our shelves is the latest of this year's production. It will pay you to examine.

An orange fad is among the possibilities of the day. Free consumption of the fruit is said to be good for the complexion, and many ladies are testing the claim.

HOW TO HELP THE BABY

Dr. Hanaford, in "Health Talks," Tells of the Pink and White Tyrant's Needs.

"The fact that about fifteen infants to every hundred births, die during the first year," says Dr. Hanaford, in his Health Talks, "and nearly one-half fail to live to the age of five, is significant and lamentable. It speaks sadly of adverse influences, most of which are unquestionably connected with feeding.

Lactated Food Baby.

"The true and natural food is mother's milk, yet her health is often such that this nourishment is positively dangerous and causes serious sickness. In such cases the ignorant and reckless use of cow's milk, which differs so widely from mother's milk, is deplorably destructive of life.

"In all cases where it is not desirable to use the mother's milk, and such cases are many, an infant food that resembles healthy breast milk is the only food that is safe to give to the infant. This should be given with great regularity, once in three hours, and once during the night the first six months, gradually diminishing the frequency afterward.

"Of the man artificial foods that are seen on the shelves of our drug stores, I prefer the lactated food. I have long been familiar with its use, and am decidedly of the opinion that its general introduction would materially diminish the death rate among the little ones in the summer season.

"This lactated food is prepared from the cereals, wheat and barley, to which sugar of milk has been added, so that it is a perfect substitute for mother's milk. No prescription is necessary to obtain it, as most druggists in this country have it for sale. A 25-cent package makes ten pints of food, so that this great blessing for mothers is not at all expensive."

A STRIKING FEATURE

Of our Carpets is the phenomenal figures at which we are selling them. There isn't any other name for these figures—they are phenomenal. They are figures that make figures of speech superfluous. It is almost always the case that, as the temperature goes up, prices go down. We are not responsible for a fall in prices. If you know anything of values, if you know what is as good as two good things usually are, if you know an unparalleled opportunity when it comes your way, you won't make any mistake about seizing this one and seizing it in a hurry.

A VICTIM OF THE BOOKIES.

THE INSURANCE AGENT.

He Strikes a Risky Subject and Is Called Down.

It happened on circus day, in the morning, shortly after the parade. An agent for a life insurance company had busied himself with passing around his business cards during the parade, and now was looking about for a victim. He was one of those active irrepressive fellows, who generally succeed in life and in making themselves eminently disagreeable to their fellow-citizens. Walking up to a bashful looking man who stood on the sidewalk, he handed him one of his cards, and said, pleasantly:

"Good morning. Fine morning. Could I trouble you for just a few moments? I want to show you a new system of life insurance that our company has adopted. Your life insured?"

The bashful looking man answered in the negative, and the agent thereupon unfolded a plan of life insurance which, as he said, was entirely new. In vain the victim protested that he wanted no life insurance; the broker would not listen. The bashful man's cheeks were slowly reddening, he was growing irritated. Suddenly he exclaimed: "All right put me down for $2,000."

A smile of satisfaction illuminated the face of the broker as he drew an application blank from his pocket and, pencil in hand, began:

"Name?"

"John Birdeye."

"Age?"

"Thirty-six."

"Occupation? That is what do you do for a living?"

"I am the lion tamer with Barnum's circus."

The broker's eyes opened wide; for a moment he stared vacantly at the man, and then, as the truth slowly dawned upon him, with a mighty effort he recovered his composure and muttered: "Well, I'll be hanged. That's one on me. Let's have a drink."—St. Paul Globe.

HE GOT THE GIRL.

A Cashier's Suggestion Which Caused His Employer to Acquiesce.

He was a courteous man and had been the old gentleman's cashier for a number of years. He was implicitly trusted, but —well, when some one suggested to the old gentleman that he was remarkably attentive to his daughter the old gentleman looked solemn. He didn' exactly approve of that.

But the young man was courteous and he had a pleasant, convincing way of putting things. He didn't indite a letter to the old gentleman; he didn't walk into his office hesitatingly as if expecting a rebuff, and he didn't enter with the air of a bold, bad man who does not intend to be "bluffed." He entered in a quiet, business-like way and said:

"I have been your cashier for ten or twelve years, Mr. Milbanks."

"Something like that, I believe," responded the old gentleman, looking at him inquiringly.

"I think my record during that time has been good," went on the young man.

"Excellent," was the reply.

"I come of a good and honorable family."

The old gentleman began to see what was coming, and he prepared for it, but he admitted the truth of the assertion.

"You have never had to have my books examined by an expert," persisted the young man.

"Never."

"Very well. There is a matter of some importance to you and me that I should like to speak about to you."

"Proceed," said the old man coldly, feeling that the moment for firmness had come.

"Would you prefer me to marry your daughter here or in Canada?" asked the cashier pleasantly.

"I—I—" began the old man, rather startled: "I—marry her here, my boy! Marry her here! I'd rather have you in this country."—Detroit Free Press.

PAY FOR WOMAN'S WORK.

An Explanation of Why It Is Lower Than for Men's Work.

"A comparison of the wages earned by men and by women in the field of skilled labor, shows very much to the advantage of the men," said the manager of a large employment bureau recently, "but why this should be so is a question I have failed to answer to my own satisfaction. Political economists claim that wages are regulated by the law of supply and demand. They say that for every calling in which women engage there are so many more than are needed that the pay is lowered much more than in a like skilled occupation followed by men.

"My experience," the speaker continued, "does not support this argument. Last spring I had on my books a much greater number of applications for skilled seamstresses than I could possibly satisfy. But did hte wages offered advance? Not a penny. People expect to pay $1.50 a day for such work and no more. The truth is that wages are regulated by custom. So much has been paid for certain kinds of labor in the past and people expect to pay the same now regardless of the conditions of the labor market.

"What is called skilled labor," the manager went on, "is that form of work which is the result of training. A horseshoer is a skilled workman. A seamstress is a skilled work-woman. But the horseshoer receives $3 per day, whereas the seamstress is fortunate if she receives half that sum. I leave you to judge whether or not it requires less experience and brains to turn out a neatly-fitting woman's dress than to hammer a piece of iron into shape. There are certain products of labor which do not bring their value in the market; there are others which bring far more than their value, estimated in the labor and skill employed in producing them, and the first are generally the work of women, the latter the work of men. Take, for example, the beautiful piece embroidery turned out by women. It requires infinite patience and great skill, yet the remuneration is ridiculously small. Take on the other hand an ordinary fresco painter, who simply follows the designs originated by others—he is paid $4 or $5 per day.

"Of course," the speaker remarked further, "every one knows that women are underpaid in most of the vocations they follow, and the reason is that they have made no organized efforts to obtain better pay, while the men have made brave struggles for centuries to have the value of their labor recognized at something like its true value. Women are, however, gradually awakening to the fact that they are underpaid and are following in the footsteps of the men, and it is only a question of time when they will achieve equal success."—N. Y. News.

FASHIONS FOR CHILDREN.

The endless number of dresses it takes to go through a season is often a heavy pull on the purse.

A sensible way is to use Diamond Dyes, which come in all colors, and make faded clothes look like new. The brown, bottle green, and cardinal are fashionable and useful dyes, while fast stocking black will make cotton stockings a black that will not fade or crock.

A CANDIDATE WITH A RECORD.

"Do you reckon our candidate's war record will stand fire?"

"Yes. They can't go back on it."

"Sawmill. Lost six fingers making coffins for the confederacy."—Atlanta Constitution.

BARBER SHOP DON'TS.

Don't be erratic. Find a good shop and stick to it.

Don't be fickle. Pick out the man who suits you best and make him take an interest in your face.

Don't be stingy. Tip him judiciously, but generously, and he will repay you in care and alertness.

Don't be foolish. Never tip a barber if you don't expect to return to that shop for another shave. Don't forget that a tip is an investment—not a gratuity or a reward.

Don't be negligent. Arrange your hours and your days so that your face will never look like a cheese grater.

Don't be a hog. When you enter a crowded shop take notice of the next man who comes in, and be sure you don't claim a chair until he is the "next" after you. Above all, don't be disagreeable when there is a dispute about precedence. In short, don't forget that you are a gentleman, even if you do need shaving.

Don't prevaricate. If the barber wants to cut your hair, and you don't want him to, don't get out of the scrape by saying you have no time, but refuse plumply.

Don't let the "artist" do anything to your head or face that you don't like. If you find him transgressing your rules or tastes, stop him short. Don't submit because he has the razor.

Don't snub the barber if he wants to talk. It is not his fault. Go to sleep or talk back.

Don't let him put oil on your hair or brillantine on your mustache. They have gone out of style in the best hirsute circles.

Don't fidget around until he cuts you, and then swear at him. He is not a savage—as a rule.

Don't fail to hire your own cup and utensils, and don't forget the number of your box.

Don't fail to tell the truth when the barber asks you if the razor hurts. Don't forget that his feelings have been hardened, if your face has not.

Finally, don't run up an account, but if you do, don't forget it.

DEATH TO CROCODILES.

Punishment Inflicted by Mohammedans When These Brutes Kill a Man.

Mohammedans believe that crocodiles are especially protected by Allah, and that it is wicked to kill one of them except for just cause; also that their great protector has strictly forbidden them to eat his human children, and it is only the wicked and worthless ones who disobey his command. When a man, therefore, has been devoured by a crocodile a professional enchanter is sent for to try the cannibal murderer and carry out the sentence of death, as well as to warn the other crocodiles. This is a great event, and, according to Harper's Young People, crowds always gather to witness the ceremony, which takes place near a swamp infested by crocodiles. The enchanter, usually an old native, has a great deal to say, first to the spectators and afterwards to the reptiles. When he has related to his audience the whole story of this particular crocodile's crime, he utters a long, shrill cry, and then sings a monotonous song, to which he beats time with his hands. This is all repeated several times, while the magician bows his head to the east and west. The people are almost breathless with expectation, and at last there is a movement in the water. Two pieces of burnt wood seem to rise to the surface, and are joined from another point by others, the enchanter repeating his cry all the time, and the dark objects moving forward as long as it lasts. When close to the beach they seem to be drawn up in military style, with their heads, and here and there a great scaly back, quite out of the water. Slowly and solemnly the magician now begins a dance along the line, muttering to each one in turn of his virtues and various good deeds and assuring him that Allah was well satisfied with his conduct.

But on approaching the criminal things are quite changed, and a thick hide seems a fortunate protection against such wholesale abuse. This particular crocodile is made out to be more wicked than any other of his tribe that ever existed. He has been warned and warned in vain, and now a just punishment will no longer be delayed. The creature really seems to understand this unfavorable opinion of him, for he squirms about uneasily and prepares to retire into private life under the water. But the old man has his eye on him and utters his shrill cry louder than ever, which arrests the misbehaving crocodile at once.

Several natives now appear with food for these animated logs, and an especial piece of meat, with a sharp hook concealed in it, for the doomed one. It is greedily swallowed, and the enchanter makes a signal for the Malays to draw in the rope to which the hook is attached, slowly at first, while he addresses a lecture to the other crocodiles on the folly of leading an evil life. Another sign and the offender is dragged out of the water by the ready natives, in spite of its struggles, while its throat is cut by the conjurer himself. The well-behaved companions of the criminal now quietly retire into deep water, apparently with the unanimous verdict of "served him right."

A PROFESSIONAL BOOR.

A New York man was paying his addresses to a young lady, but her father objected to the marriage.

"What objection do you have to my marrying your daughter, you blasted old fool?" asked the suitor.

"My principal objection is that you are rough and disagreeable in your manners."

"I am compelled to be so by my position. I would be discharged if I behaved like a gentleman, you old mutton-headed gorilla."

"What is your position?" asked the parent.

"I am an elevated railroad official."—Texas Siftings.
